The following message was received from the Governor, by his Private Secretary, Mr. Yost :

SENATORS AND REPRESENTATIVES :

I welcome you to the field of your arduous labors. An appreciative and intelligent constituency, whose voice you will speak on the important questions which will come before you, will anxiously await the results. The provisions of the Constitution limit and restrict the powers of the Legislature. The great object has been to restrict legislative action, unless it can be general and not special. Hence local and special legislation has been prohibited. If a statutory enactment shall be beneficial to the people of this county, it is presumed it will be beneficial to all the people of this State. There has been a great change in public opinion on this subject within my recollection. In former years it was said that people would not invest their money in manufacturing and other enterprises, unless those engaging in the business could obtain a special charter of incorporation; and when a general law was advocated, in order to dispense with such special legislation, it was argued no one would risk his capital, when the general law was subject to change or repeal by a subsequent Legislature. Those urging such objections to general laws for incorporations had little or no faith in the capacity of the people to govern themselves. Special laws creating corporations are prohibited; and in those States whose constitutions on that subject are similar to our own, many corporations exist, formed under a general law. So incorporations under the general law are created every day in the State. I refer to those provisions of our Constitution which prohibit local and special legislation, so that the General Assembly, as well as the Chief Executive of this State, may not, in the great desire to serve the people, be unmindful of these salutary provisions. The Governor is required, at the commencement of each session of the General Assembly, to give information of the condition of the affairs of the State. The condition of the Treasury is a subject of grave importance, and hence I speak of it first.

THE TREASURY.

The Constitution contains the following provision relating to the duties of the State Treasurer:

"All moneys now, or at any time hereafter, in the State Treasury, belonging to the State, shall, immediately on receipt thereof, be deposited by the Treasurer to the credit of the State, for the benefit of the funds to which they respectively belong, in such bank or banks as he may, from time to time, with the approval of the Governor and Attorney-General, select, the said bank or banks giving security satisfactory to the Governor and Attorney-General, for the safe keeping and payment of such deposits, when demanded by the State Treasurer on his checks; such bank to pay a bonus for the use of such deposits not less than the bonus paid by other banks for similar deposits; and the same, together with such interest and profits as may accrue thereon, shall be disbursed by said Treasurer for the purposes of the State, according to law, upon warrants drawn by the State Auditor, and not otherwise."

From the time of the incorporation of the Bank of the State of Missouri, and until it ceased to exist as a State bank, it was the financial agent of the State. The State had, in its own right, and of trust funds, stock in that bank to nearly the amount of one-third of its capital stock, and, by law, moneys of the State were deposited in it. Whatever advantages resulted to the bank by reason of deposits of the moneys of the State, were shared by the State in proportion to its stock in that bank. When that bank ceased to exist as a State bank, there was no law requiring any moneys of the State to be deposited in any bank nor that the State Treasurer should seek to obtain interest on the money of the State for its benefit, by depositing it with any banking institution whatever. The duty of the Treasurer with respect to the safe-keeping of the treasure of the State is tersely defined. The law reads: "The Treasurer shall receive and keep all the moneys of the State not expressly required by law to be received and kept by some other person." The law did not require him to keep the money in the safe or vault; it did not require him to deposit it with any bank, nor with any other moneyed institution, nor was he required to deposit that money where interest could be obtained for the benefit of the State; nor was he prohibited from depositing the money in banks. The law left it to the discretion and judgment of the Treasurer alone, with no interference or supervision by any other person or persons, to determine for himself how and where he would "keep the moneys of the State." The Auditor had no authority to direct how and where the Treasurer should keep the moneys of the State. The Treasurer is required to render to the Auditor a just and true account of all moneys received and also of all moneys disbursed, and stating under each head of appropriation what disbursements have been made, and to render his accounts to the Auditor for settlement quarterly, or oftener if required. But this does not give the Auditor the power to require the Treasurer to state where he keeps the money of the State—whether it is in the vault in the Capitol, or whether it is deposited with any, and if so, with what, banking institution. Nor did the Governor ever have, nor has he now, such supervising power. The executive officers are required to perform such duties as may be required by law; but the fifteenth section of the tenth article of the Constitution required of the State Treasurer other duties than those then prescribed by statute law. He is required to deposit the funds of the State in the bank selected by him, with the approval of the Governor and Attorney-General; and he is to require security satisfactory to the Governor and the Attorney-General for the safe-keeping and payment of such deposits. The attention of the last Legislature was called at an early period of the session to the necessity of legislation to carry into effect the provisions of the Constitution. The subject-matter was referred in the Senate to a select committee, composed principally of lawyers. That committee, in the month of January, made its report and designated many sections of the Constitution which, in their opinion, required legislation to carry them into effect, and, amongst other sections, designated Section fifteen of Article ten. The Senate adopted that report, and thereby adopted the opinions of that committee, and that section of the Constitution, amongst others, was referred to the Committee of Ways and Means, with instructions to report suitable bills. The opinion of the Attorney-General was sought. He was required to inform the Senate whether, in his opinion, that section of the Constitution was “self-executing.” After referring to the various statutes defining the duty of the Treasurer, and quoting from the speeches of the members of the Constitutional Convention, wherein they held that this section would require legislation to enforce it, he gives it as his opinion that the several statutes which he cited relating to the duties of the State Treasurer are inconsistent with the requirements of Section fifteen, Article ten, and that it is not self-enforcing, but legislation is necessary to carry it into effect.

The following is an extract from his reply to the resolution of the Senate requesting whether, in his opinion, this section of the Constitution was self-executing:

“Now, suppose that the Treasurer should select one or more utterly insolvent and worthless banks, or any one or more banks in a foreign State, and the Governor and Attorney-General should refuse to approve the selection, and the Treasurer should decline to make a further selection, what would be the result? There is no requirement of the Constitution, or of any statute, that the Treasurer continue to make such further selection of a bank or banks until the Governor and Attorney-General shall approve a selection; there is no statute imposing any penalty upon the Treasurer for his failure to perform his duty in this particular; there would be no solution of the difficulty in the law, and the Treasurer would retain the funds as if said constitutional provision had never been adopted. Or, suppose that the Governor and Attorney-General should approve the selection made by the Treasurer, of a bank or banks, and such bank or banks were unable to give security, satisfactory to the Governor and Attorney-General, for the safe-keeping and payment of the State deposits, and the Treasurer should refuse to select any other bank or banks, how could the said section, in such case, be made effectual, unless the Legislature provides a statute that shall prescribe the details for the carrying into effect of this provision, with suitable penalties to compel the observance of said constitutional provision, and the statutes enacted in pursuance thereof? Again, what sort of security must the Governor and Attorney-General take for safe-keeping and payment of such deposits? Must it be a bond with personal security thereon, and if so, to whom shall the bond be given, and what are to be its conditions? Must it be given to the State, or to the Treasurer, or to the Governor and Attorney-General? Must the Governor and Attorney-General take real estate security, or bonds and choses in action, and if so, who is to have the custody and control of these securities? Ought there not to be some statute defining the duties, not only of the Treasurer, but of the Governor and Attorney-General, in this matter? Is the Treasurer at liberty to select his bank or banks of deposit for the State funds in any State or Territory that he may select? or is he restricted in such selection to the banks of this State? If the Governor and Attorney-General are authorized to take a bond, with personal security, for the safe-keeping and payment of the State deposits, must the sureties on the bond reside in this State, or can they, in case of a selection of a foreign bank or banks, take non-resident sureties on the bond of such bank or banks, given for the safe-keeping and payment of the deposits?

“These matters ought to be regulated by statute, because if a foreign bank should fail in the safe-keeping and payment of such State deposits, the State ought not to be required to go into the courts of a foreign State to recover said deposits.

"These suggestions, and others that might be named, demonstrate the proposition that the said section fifteen of Article ten can not be certainly enforced without the aid of statutory detail providing the manner and means for that purpose."

The House of Representatives, by resolution, requested the Treasurer to inform the House how much money there was in the Treasury, and where the same was deposited or kept. He replied the money of the State was deposited and kept as follows :

Bank of St. Joseph, Mo.....	$1,034,998 42
National Bank State of Missouri.....	99,246 54
National Exchange Bank, Jefferson City.....	2,180 51
In vault.....	19,020 69
Total.....	$1,155 446 16

The Treasurer named the several funds to which the money belonged. He also says :

"I further state that, inasmuch as there is no statutory law giving effect to Section 15, Article 10 of the Constitution, I have not observed the requirements of the same, but have the various funds in my custody so situated that I can subject the same to the requirements of any legislation that may be adopted for the government of the Treasury Department. I may further state that I have taken a bond from the Bank of St. Joseph, for my own protection, for one million dollars. Believing that the present General Assembly would, at an early day, enact laws enforcing the Constitution, the funds in my custody have been temporarily deposited in the foregoing banks for safe-keeping, and no interest has been paid for the same."

Bills to carry into effect the provisions of Section 15, Article 10, were introduced and were passed by each house of the General Assembly, but they differed in their provisions. The Legislature failed to enact any laws to carry into effect the provisions of said Section 15, to regulate the deposits and safe custody of the public moneys. The State Treasurer was then left to be governed by the statute law in the discharge of his official duties.

The Treasurer gave his official bond as required by law in the sum of one million of dollars, with eleven sureties, a portion of whom justified to the amount of $1,550,000, which bond was filed with the Secretary of State, with my approval of the same indorsed thereon. If the sureties of the Treasurer should become insolvent, or remove from the State, nowhere is the authority given to the Governor, or any other officer, to require a new bond or additional security to be given. It is true, such request might be made, but there is no power or authority to coerce a compliance, or penalty for non-compliance. Nor has the Governor the power to remove the Treasurer for a failure to perform the duties enjoined on him. Nor would it be right to vest in the Governor alone the power to remove him, or any other officer, at his pleasure. Nor is there any authority contained in the Constitution, nor in the law, by which the Governor can require the Treasurer to perform the duties named in section 15 of the 10th article of the Constitution, and whatever is to be done under that provision of the Constitution requires the Treasurer to take the initiative. The Treasurer never consulted me or advised with me about placing the public funds in the bank of St. Joseph, or in the Mastin Bank, nor in any other bank prior to the failure of the Mastin Bank. During my absence from the State in 1877, the Treasurer sought to carry out the provisions of the Constitution with respect to the deposits of the public money. One bank only submitted a proposal, and that was accepted in July, 1877. That bank was requested to furnish satisfactory security for the safe-keeping and payment of such deposits. The request was disregarded by the bank, and no security whatever was offered, and consequently no deposits by the State were made in it. This transaction occurred during the time of my absence, and whilst Lieutenant-Governor Brockmeyer was discharging the duties of Governor.

In the month of August, 1878, the Mastin Bank failed, and its assets were placed in the hands of its assignee. At the date of its failure the State Treasurer claimed to have to his credit in that bank the sum of $506,187.80, moneys of the State. To secure the payment of his deposits in that bank he had taken the bond of the bank in the sum of one million dollars, with sureties, and also some collaterals which he had received from some of the sureties on the bond. A portion of these collaterals have been surrendered to the parties who had pledged them, and he has received in cash the sum of $220,000, which reduces his demand against that bank to the sum of $286,187.80.

During the last fall proposals were again invited from banks for the payment of a bonus for the use of the money of the State. Several banks submitted propositions. The proposals of the Bank of Commerce, of the city of St. Louis, for all, and of the National Exchange Bank, of Jefferson City, for $50,000, of the money of the State, being the best and most advantageous offers to the State, were accepted by the Treasurer, with the approval of myself and the Attorney-General, and both of these banks gave security to the satisfaction of the Treasurer, the Attorney-General and myself. Those banks have each deposited bonds of the United States or of this State, or both, with trustees in the city of New York, to secure the faithful performance of their part of the contract. Such is their agreement, and the Treasurer has been notified that stocks of such description have been deposited with the trustees, as was stipulated. But, it is respectfully submitted, if banks are to hypothecate stocks of any description, either of the United States or of this State, as security for the safe-keeping and payment of the deposits of the State, undoubtedly those banks would prefer the sale—if sale should take place of these securities—should be made in the city of New York, instead of St. Louis. If the sale is to be made by a trustee, it is desirable that trustee should be amenable to and within the jurisdiction of the courts of this State, and that the State should not be compelled to resort to the courts of a foreign jurisdiction for redress. If default by the banks which now have the deposits should occur, and if the trustees of the banks and of the State should neglect or fail to discharge the trusts they assumed, I have no doubt the present Treasurer, Attorney-General and Executive would be censured for permitting trustees to be selected who resided beyond the jurisdiction of this State; and if the propositions of the deposit banks had not been accepted, the executive officers would have been censured for not accepting the propositions, notwithstanding the trustees were non-residents of this State.

Copies of the contracts with these banks and the Treasurer will be submitted to you by him with his report, and I also respectfully refer you to the report of the Treasurer for further information respecting the transactions of his department.

The Treasurer, as I am informed, did, shortly after the failure of the Mastin Bank, institute suit against the bank and its sureties on the bond held by him, for the recovery of the money deposited in that bank. No legal proceedings have been directed by me to be commenced against the Treasurer on his bond, because it is believed the right of the State to institute suit will not accrue, under existing laws, till the Treasurer shall be required to give a new official bond. In the transactions of the Treasurer with the Mastin Bank, it is charged he has violated the criminal law. Indictments were found against him at the last October term of the Criminal Court of Jackson county, charging him with receiving benefits and advantages from the deposits of money of the State made in the Mastin Bank by him. The indictments, I am informed, were framed upon the 44th section of the 3rd article of "Crimes and Punishments." As soon as I was informed such indictments were pending, I directed the Attorney-General to assist John L. Peak, Esq., the prosecuting attorney of Jackson county, in the management and trial of these cases, as well as in the trial of some indictments which were preferred against the late Treasurer of this State for a violation of the same law. I regret the State was unable—by reason of the absence of witnesses—to proceed in the trial of these indictments against the Treasurer at the last term of this court. If the Treasurer is guilty as charged, or has violated any other law, let him be punished. The Executive will screen no one from punishment. The laws of the State shall be enforced against all alike, whether in public or in private life. But, as an act of justice to the Treasurer, it is proper that I should state the Treasurer demanded a speedy trial.

RENEWAL FUNDING BONDS.

Bonds of this State to the amount of $838,000 fell due at different periods in the year 1877, and bonds to the amount of $490,000 fell due in 1878. The act of March 29th, 1875, provided for the issue of new bonds, and the proceeds of those bonds were directed to be applied to the payment of bonds of this State issued in the years 1855, 1856 and 1857. Those bonds were redeemable at the pleasure of the Legislature at any time after the expiration of twenty years from their date. But, by the act referred to, it was declared those bonds should be redeemed at the expiration of twenty years from their respective dates. The bonds which fell due in 1878, fell due in the months of March, April, May, August, October and December. By the terms of this act no bonds could be issued at a later date than the year 1877. The Constitution provides there shall be an annual tax levied and collected, sufficient to pay the accruing interest upon the bonded debt of the State, and to reduce the principal thereof each year not less than $250,000. The attention of the Legislature was called to the fact that whilst at least $250,000 was required to be annually set apart for the extinguishment of the bonded debt of the State, there would fall due in 1878, $490,000 of bonds. This would be in excess of the amount required to be placed in the Sinking Fund, and without a considerable increase in the revenue, this sum could not be paid without additional legislation. No additional legislation on that subject was had. The amount of $1,328,000 of bonds fell due in 1877 and 1878, and there was no probability the State would be able to pay more than the sum of $250,000 annually, as required by the Constitution. It was then apparent that as, under the act of March 29th, 1875, the only bonds which could be funded were those which fell due in 1877, there would be a necessity to convene the Legislature to provide for the exigency, or to fund the bonds which fell due in that year. The latter course was adopted. My predecessor stated to the General Assembly, in his message, "that in 1877 there will be to fund $588,000, in 1878, $240,000, and none during the following four years. As, under the act of March 29th, 1875, only the bonds falling due this year can be funded, you will have to provide by a new act for funding the excess, $240,000, for 1878." It was apparent to him that the State would be compelled to fund in the years 1877 and 1878 the sum of $828,000 of its bonded debt, of the $1,328,000 of bonds which fell due in those years. The bonds were issued to aid in the construction of the roads hereinafter mentioned, and fell due at the times stated :

In the month of April, 1877, the Fund Commissioners, in accordance with the provisions of the funding act of March 29, 1875, by public advertisement, in the manner prescribed by that act, invited proposals for the purchase of an amount of the bonds of this State not exceeding \$838,000. The advertisement was so framed that if the Legislature should make other provisions for paying the State debt which fell due in 1877 and 1878, they would not be required to sell more bonds than they might deem advisable. At the time named in the advertisement—in the month of May—the bids for those bonds were publicly opened by me, in the presence of the Fund Commissioners, such bidders as chose to be present, and other persons. The Legislature having adjourned without making provision for the redemption of the bonds which fell due in 1878, which were in excess of the amount required by the Constitution to be redeemed, the Fund Commissioners did, by my advice and consent, direct that \$838,000 of bonds should be issued, that number having been found necessary to pay maturing bonds of the State. It was found that one party proposed to pay \$1.066 premium per hundred for \$100,000 of bonds, and his bid was accepted. The bids for the other bonds, being at the rate of about $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. premium only, were, by the Commissioners, on my advice, rejected. It was deemed not advisable at that time to re-advertise, but to await proposals for private sale. Such proposals were made shortly thereafter, and accepted by the Commissioners, with my full approval. \$738,000 of bonds were sold at a premium of \$3.235 per \$100, that being the highest and best offer. The total premiums received upon the sale of all those bonds was \$28,051, which was carried to the Sinking Fund, and was at the rate of more than $3\frac{1}{4}$ per cent. premium. I was convinced it was the best price which could then be obtained.

ADDITIONAL REVENUE NEEDED.

At the last session of the Legislature, when the temporary loan of $250,000 was recommended, by me, I advised steps should then be taken to increase the revenues so that the loan should be paid at its maturity from such increase. For this purpose I recommended a poll-tax of one dollar be imposed on every male person over the age of twenty-one, and if this had been done, the loan then authorized would have been paid, principal and interest, by the revenue from that source. If a poll-tax of one dollar shall be imposed, and the same authority to collect it which the collector now has for the collection of the tax on personal property, I estimate $300,000 would be collected, and the poll-tax, if authorized, can be added to the assessment list, and placed on the tax-book for this year. More revenue must be raised and expenses must be reduced. But little revenue is derived from dram-shop licenses, and I am satisfied the quantity of spirits used as a beverage has not been diminished much, if any, within the last few years. I recommend the minimum tax to be levied on each dram-shop, for State purposes, be not less than $50 for every period of six months, (the minimum tax is now $25,) and that no county, city or town shall impose a greater tax than the State imposes for a dram-shop license. There are dram-shop keepers who pay only from $50 to $100 per year for State purposes, and who pay several hundred dollars to the city or town treasuries for a dram-shop license. You are as well able to estimate as I am, whether the property of the State will be valued as high for the collection of taxes this year as for the preceding years. The State is slowly increasing in population, but the value of property has been greatly depressed for the past few years. There are good reasons to believe this period of depression of values has ceased, and that we shall now have prosperous times. Within this State, in the last year, nearly 200 miles of railroad have been put in operation, and means are now being raised to speedily build other railroads in our State. Such improvements increase the value of property, add wealth to the country, and invite and induce immigration. It is not a pleasant task to invite you to increase the taxes to be borne by the people of the State. But when we consider that the amount of taxes paid to the State is only 40 cents on the $100, it shows the taxation for State purposes is light. The onerous taxes which the people of this State pay are the county taxes, and taxes for the erection of splendid edifices for school-houses, and interest on county or school indebtedness, recklessly created several years ago, before the great shrinkage of values. The old maxim for all governments, national, State or municipal, is "to pay as you go," and this has been signally disregarded.

The expenditures for the first six months of this year will be very large, and some of them will not occur next year. The pay of the General Assembly is estimated at $115,000; its contingent expenses, $50,000; paper for printing, printing reports and documents ordered by the General Assembly, printing journals, and printing and binding the revised code and session acts, $50,000, (a total of $215,000;) the temporary loan, $250,000; and the 25 per cent. of the revenue fund to be paid to the "public school fund," or State School Moneys, in the month of March, and the interest on the State bonds and certificate of indebtedness held by the State as trustee for this fund, will all amount to about $537,000, which will be drawn from the Treasury, principally in the month of April. The amount paid out of the "public school fund," or State School Moneys, for the corresponding period of time last year, was $537,306.47. These sums will aggregate one million, one thousand three hundred and six dollars, which the State may be called on to pay on or before the first of July next. The receipts of the revenue during the first six months of this year, together with the balance of the revenue fund, if all of it shall be available, will be insufficient to meet these demands. The temporary loan of $250,000 must be renewed or extended for a longer period of time. The important duty devolves on you to diminish the expenses of the State, to increase its revenues, and to provide for the renewal of the temporary loan. In such measures as you may devise to accomplish these objects, or any other measures for the welfare of the people of the State, you will have my concurrence and cordial co-operation.

PUBLIC SCHOOL FUND.

The Public School Fund is invested in the bonds and certificate of indebtedness of this State, all bearing six per cent. interest, the income of which, with 25 per cent. of the general revenue of the State, is applied to the support of public schools. This fund is invested as follows :

Bonds of this State.....	$2,009,000 00
Certificate of indebtedness.....	900,000 00
Cash in Treasury.....	457 11
Total.....	$2,909,457 11

The bonds of the State belonging to this fund are in the custody of the Treasurer. There is nothing to show upon their face that the bonds belong to the State. All of them are coupon bonds, the title to which passes by delivery. If these bonds should be improperly put in circulation, and come into the hands of an innocent holder, I suggest for your consideration whether the State would not be morally bound for their payment. Let us obviate all such questions when it can be so easily done. Direct that all of the coupons shall be destroyed, the bonds canceled by defacing them, and that fact be made of record in the offices of State Auditor and State Treasurer by a description of the bonds and the date they shall become due. Issue certificates of indebtedness to the Public School Fund, bearing interest at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, and in such amounts as will cause the certificate to become payable at the time the bonds would have become due, and in such manner that the public debt shall not be increased, in violation of the Constitution. Let provision be made that when the certificate shall be redeemable, bonds of the State shall be purchased for this fund, and when delivered to the Treasurer they shall, in like manner, be canceled and certificates of indebtedness issued.

SEMINARY FUND.

There are $122,000 of the bonds of this State, bearing six per cent interest, in the custody of the State Treasurer. They are coupon bonds, with nothing upon them to denote they are the property of the State. I recommend these bonds be canceled and certificates in lieu thereof be issued, in the same manner and subject to like conditions with the certificates by me recommended to be issued for State bonds held by the Public School fund.

STATE INTEREST AND SINKING FUNDS.

The State Interest fund consists of a tax of one-fifth of one per centum per annum levied and collected on all property subject to taxation. By the provisions of the Constitution, the proceeds of the tax shall be applied to the payment of the interest on the bonded debt of the State as it shall mature, and the surplus, if any, shall be paid into the Sinking fund, and thereafter be applied to the redemption of the bonded indebtedness of the State. It is also provided the amount paid into the Sinking fund shall be at least $250,000 annually. The Fund Commissioners have paid the interest on the public debt to the 1st of July last, and have forwarded to the National Bank of Commerce, of New York, an amount sufficient to pay the interest on the bonded debt, payable in that city on the 1st of this month. And there has been paid out of the Sinking fund, in the last two years, $535,000, for the redemption of the public debt. Part of this money was applied in payment of twenty bonds, with interest, which have not heretofore been reckoned as a part of the debt of the State. The indebtedness of this State on the 1st of January, 1877, was $17,268,000, instead of $17,248,000. The indebtedness of the State on the 1st of January, 1879, was $16,758,000, not including the contingent liability of the State on account of $3,000,000 of bonds loaned to the Hannibal & St. Joe Railroad Company. This amount does not include the temporary loan of $250,000 which falls due this year. From the present date to the year 1886, only $442,000 of the bonds of the State will become due, and the larger part of the amount to be placed in the Sinking fund will be applied to the purchase of bonds before they shall have matured.

RATE OF INTEREST.

In such times of pecuniary embarrassment as we have experienced the last four or five years, and as we are now experiencing, distrust of the solvency of our business men is engendered. Money is, for that reason, difficult to be obtained, and is often loaned at rates exceeding those authorized by law. At this time, in portions of our country, money is plenty, and when loaned, is seldom loaned at rates above seven per cent., and oftentimes for a much less rate. The bonds of the United States, which bear but four per cent. interest, are sought for eagerly. Under existing laws, these bonds have another value besides the long time before they mature, and the punctuality and certainty of payment. It is that they are exempt from State and municipal taxation, which is estimated in the principal cities of the Union where capital is concentrated, as equal to two per cent. per annum. I advise the rate of interest be reduced to six or seven per cent. per annum, and that our laws of usury shall be so changed that the defense of usury shall be of some avail and benefit to the unfortunate debtor. The penalties for usury in this State are made to encourage the loaning of money beyond the lawful rate of interest. In short, our interest law has been enacted in the interest alone of the lender, and not with a due regard to that which is right to both borrower and lender. It is often said that men should be permitted to contract for the use of money at such rate as they may please to give, and that no tribunal should annul or invalidate contracts. This proposition goes too far, and if carried to its full extent, then all gaming contracts should be enforced and not be declared void.

But the Legislature fixes the rate of interest which it is lawful to receive for the loan of money, and has the right to declare contracts void made for a greater rate of interest than that authorized by law. In this connection I must say the lenders of money in some manner evade the payment of taxes on the money they have loaned. Violating the law relating to interest by exacting more than the law permits them to take, their next evasion or disregard of law is to screen their notes from taxation. There are counties in this State where the recorder's office will show thousands of dollars loaned, and the payment secured by deeds of trust or mortgage deeds unsatisfied, whilst the assessment list will show only a small amount of money loaned. Thus are the revenue laws of the State avoided, and men do not pay taxes in proportion to the value of the property they own.

I trust the Legislature will so provide that all the money which is loaned by citizens of the State in the State, shall be taxed. Perhaps it may be advisable to declare that no judgment shall be rendered on a note or bond for the payment of money or property when by its date or the instrument itself, it is evident it has been liable to taxation, unless the plaintiff shall show it has been assessed for taxation, and if the note has escaped taxation, then the court shall render a judgment in favor of the State for the taxes and penalties which should have been paid by the owner of the note, and which said judgment shall have priority of payment, and be credited on said note.

REVISION.

The statute laws of this State of a general nature must be revised by the Legislature, or a plain and important injunction of the Constitution will be disregarded. The 41st Section of Article 4, of the Constitution provides that within five years after the adoption of the Constitution "all the statute laws of a general nature, both civil and criminal, shall be revised, digested and promulgated in such manner as the General Assembly shall direct." The Constitution was adopted in October, 1875, and became the supreme law of the State on the 30th day of November of that year. It is to be regretted the last Legislature did not provide for a commission of experienced men, learned in the law, who should collate the laws of the State, showing what the general statutes now are, and making suggestions of the alterations and amendments proper and suitable to be made, in order to make our code of laws as perfect as human wisdom can devise. The attention of the Legislature was called to this subject by myself and by my immediate predecessor. The five years within which this important labor is to be performed will expire this year. The laws of the State have not been revised since 1865, and many important amendments and great changes have been made to the general laws, which are scattered through a dozen volumes of Session Acts. To collate all these and put them in symmetrical shape, in proper and appropriate language where needed, to suggest such amendments as will make the text harmonize and be congruous with the tenor of the law and the intent of the law-makers, will require both skill and time to accomplish. And why should not time be given for this purpose? Wisdom does not consist in the enactment of many laws, nor in frequent changes of them. Where frequent changes of important laws take place, the people do not keep themselves informed of those changes, and we sometimes meet with those who have suffered from the sudden and important changes of law. But few laws are needed. Let them be distinguished for their perspicuity and wisdom. But if bad laws have been placed on the statute book, they ought forthwith to be repealed.

You can not provide for an adjourned session of the Legislature, to which a report could be made by a revising commission, because an adjournment of the Legislature for more than three days is, by the terms of the Constitution, an adjournment sine die; but you might pass the general appropriation bill, and a bill for the better regulation of the Treasury Department, and for the security of public moneys, and other bills of like important character, and also provide for the appointment of a revising commission, who should prepare a report by a time to be named or to be designated by the Governor, and when such commission should report to the Governor, the report should be printed, and he should convene the Legislature to revise the general laws of the State—in short, to perform the duty required to be performed by the 41st Section of the 4th article of the Constitution. I do not distrust the capacity of the Legislature to perform the work, but I do believe that in the multifarious duties of its members they will not make as good a revision of the laws as three able jurists of our State can prepare. Therefore, if the Legislature will adjourn sine die, after such laws shall have been passed as will meet the present exigencies, it could be convened by proclamation of the Governor to make the revision, and if it should be necessary to pass any laws of an important character during the called session, the attention of the Legislature could be called to the subject by a special message from the Governor, so that legislation could be had. In this manner an excellent revision can be obtained, and, I believe, with no more expense than if the revision shall be undertaken without the aid of a revising commission. Both sessions of the Legislature would not exceed in their length the period of time designated for a revising session. Or, if this plan shall not meet with approval, a commission to aid in the revision might be in session simultaneously with the Legislature. I deem the method first named the best. The object is to have our laws properly revised, and such labor can not be performed in haste, nor without great care and deliberate consideration. It must be borne in mind the enactment of laws by the General Assembly of this State is a slow process. After a bill shall have been engrossed, it is to be printed before it shall be put upon its passage, and if amendments shall be adopted in the other House, these amendments are also to be printed before final action shall be had, and then every bill, after it shall have been passed by both Houses, shall be read in extenso in each House before the respective presiding officers shall attest the passage of the bill by affixing to it their signatures.

SUPREME COURT.

The Supreme Court is now overburdened with business. The judges have arduous and important duties to perform, which require close examination and patient investigation. The business of the court has greatly increased in the last few years, and some relief should be furnished to suitors and to the court. Several plans have been suggested. One is to establish two appellate courts, one on the north side, the other on the south side of the Missouri river, and vest these with power similar to those conferred on the St. Louis Court of Appeals. Another plan is to appoint a commission of able jurists, to which commission cases pending in the Supreme Court shall be referred by that court, and those commissioners shall submit their statement of the cases, with their opinion on the same, to the Supreme Court for confirmation, and judgment to be entered accordingly. And still another plan is to add two more judges to the Supreme Court; then organize the court into two tribunals, from time to time, to consist of at least three judges, and each tribunal may be in session at the same time and place, and the judgment of each tribunal to be the judgment of the Supreme Court. But all the judges shall constitute the court when the constitutionality of an act of the Legislature shall be drawn in question, and in criminal cases where the punishment may be death or imprisonment in the penitentiary for life, and in cases where the amount in controversy shall exceed $20,000. There will then be one judge who may be detailed to serve on either tribunal in the event of sickness or other inability to serve of one of the judges

The proposition last stated, I think, is preferable. These plans will require the constitution to be amended. The delay attendant on litigation in the Supreme Court amounts almost to a denial of justice. Many cases are taken to the Supreme Court by reason of the delay the judgment debtor will obtain; whereas, if the cases should be speedily determined, fewer cases would be taken to this court. There were 974 cases on the docket of the Supreme Court at the commencement of its October term, 1877, and 430 cases were added to that docket on or before the first day of its October term, 1878. But during that year 427 cases had been disposed of, including a few cases which had been submitted and taken under advisement. And on the first day of its October term, 1878, there were 980 cases, showing the court had been unable to keep up with its business.

COSTS IN CRIMINAL CASES.

There was appropriated for the payment of costs in criminal cases the sum of $400,000 for the service of the years 1877 and 1878. A portion of this appropriation was expended in the payment of costs in criminal cases, where the fee-bills had been filed with the Auditor a short time before the close of the year 1876. The amount of these fee-bills is estimated at $13,000, and ought to have been included in the deficiency appropriation. This appropriation of $400,000 was exhausted in the month of October last, and since that time certificates of indebtedness have been issued on all fee-bills for costs in criminal cases presented for audit to the first day of this month, and which amount to $41,019.57. Deducting the $13,000 above named from the $400,000 appropriated, and adding to that the sum of $41,019.57, the amount of certificates of indebtedness issued since last October, it makes the amount $428,019.57, as the amount justly chargeable to the expenditures under that head for the years 1877 and 1878. I had occasion to call the attention of the last Legislature to the large expenditure of money for the suppression of crime and the punishment of criminals. At that time it was urged a reduction of these expenses ought to be made. In former years, when costs in criminal cases had become a large expenditure, it was enacted that when the costs could be and were made from the defendant's property, full costs should be paid; that is, the full fees as prescribed by law; but when the costs were to be paid by the State or by the county, it was provided only one-half of the fees should be paid; and this provision extended to all fees and costs prior to the rendition of the judgment. There was formerly a statute which provided that in all criminal cases there should be a lien on all the property of the defendant for the payment of costs and fine which might be adjudged against him, and which lien should date from the day of the arrest of defendant, or from the date of the indictment found, whichever might first happen. I advise a similar provision be adopted. Criminals sentenced to the penitentiary are sometimes kept in the jails many days after the judgment and sentence has been rendered, and when no appeal or writ of error is pending. This entails additional expense to the State, for the cost of feeding a convict in the penitentiary is about ten cents per day, whilst in the jails it is fifty cents per day. This unnecessary delay in sending convicts to the penitentiary should be remedied. Besides the appropriation of $400,000, there was appropriated by the Legislature the sum of $111,547.99 to pay certificates of indebtedness which were issued in the year 1876, because the appropriation for the payment of costs in criminal cases for the years 1875 and 1876 had been exhausted. The expenses under the head of costs in criminal cases, chargeable in each period of two years for the four years ending on the first of this month, are as follows:

1875—January 1—Balance to credit of appropriation for costs in criminal cases.		$10,606 69
Appropriation for 1875 and 1876.....		350,000 00
Deficiency appropriation.....		111,547 99
Bills of costs filed with the Auditor prior to January 1, 1877.....		13,000 00
		$474,548 68

The two items last mentioned, amounting to $124,547.99, were disbursed from the Treasury during the year 1877, and were included in the estimates with other liabilities of the State, which compelled the Legislature to authorize the temporary loan. For the service of the last two fiscal years, of the appropriation of $400,000:

This sum has been disbursed.....	$387,000 00
Certificates of indebtedness issued to first of this month, under head of costs in criminal cases.....	41,019 57
	$428,019 57

Making the sum of but $428,019.57, the amount of costs paid and certificates issued on bills of costs in criminal cases first presented to the Auditor for audit during the years 1877 and 1878, whilst during the years 1875 and 1876, the sum of $474,548.68, bills of costs in criminal cases, had been presented to the Auditor, making in four years the following:

1875 and 1876.....	$474,548 68
The sum of.....	$902,568 25

presented for allowance and audited during that time as the expense paid by the State for the prosecution of criminals.

The money paid from the treasury for the support of the penitentiary during the same years, is as follows:

1875.....	$104,625 90
1876.....	126,199 92
	<hr/>
	$230,825 82
1877.....	$96,010 01
1878.....	51,961 52
	$147,971 53

In the cost of maintaining the penitentiary, as here stated, I have not counted the earnings of the prisoners, which have been applied to the support of the prison, but have stated the cash actually paid from the treasury for that object. There was cash paid out of the treasury:

For support of penitentiary four years.....	$388,787 35
Costs in criminal cases paid by State.....	902,568 25
	$1,291,355 60

An annual cost of more than $322,000 paid by the State for the prosecution and punishment of malefactors. Does any one now wonder that the officers charged with the management of the penitentiary seek to make the convicts work? and if they can not be worked within the walls of the prison, to work them outside? Would not those officers be culpable if they should keep 300 or 400 men locked up in their sells because they could not be worked within the walls of the prison, when there were persons ready to employ them to work outside of the walls and pay the State fair wages for their services? And is it any wonder that the officers of the State government, when the treasury pays so great sums for the prosecution and punishment of criminals, should ask the General Assembly to lessen the costs the State pays? or seek to make criminals help pay the costs of their conviction and punishment? The government of the United States does not pay the costs of the defendant, even though the defendant should be acquitted; and such is the law of several States in the Union. But I do not advise so harsh a remedy. But would it not be a good law, since the defenaant is permitted to testify in criminal cases, that the costs of witnesses who only testify as to the character of the defendant, or who may have been summoned for that purpose, shall not be taxed against the State, nor against the county, in any event whatever? The people demand a reduction of the expenses of our government, municipal, State and National.

CRIMINAL LAW.

I take pleasure in stating to you that the criminal law is, at this time, well executed and enforced in all parts of the State. In a few cases, besides in the "strike" in the summer of 1877, a spirit of turbulence has been manifested. I have, in a few instances, sent Gen. Mitchell, the Adjutant-General, not in his military capacity, but as an attorney, to aid the prosecuting attorney of the county where sent, in the management of such criminal cases as were pending or might arise, with directions to make known to those who were lawlessly inclined that the laws should be enforced and criminals punished; that the whole power of the State was at my command, and if the execution of process and of the law should be resisted, and there was not a sufficient number of good people in the county to enforce the laws, I would find an adequate force elsewhere that would promptly enforce the law and preserve order. The duties of the Attorney-General in the Supreme Court, or in the preparation of his cases, were so urgent that he could not be spared to perform the services I wished to have then rendered. The services of General Mitchell were valuable and efficient, and were rendered without other charge than the payment of expenses. In those counties to which I allude, the law-abiding citizens of the county manifested a readiness to aid the civil officers in the execution of the law and the preservation of public quiet, and I am glad I can announce to you that obedience to the law prevails throughout the State.

THE STRIKE.

In the summer of 1877 there was manifested in many towns and cities in our country, which were railroad centers, a disposition by lawless acts to coerce the railroad companies to increase, or to prevent a reduction of the wages of their employes. Upon many roads all of the employes struck; upon other roads a portion struck and compelled those who were willing to remain to quit their employment. There was but little interference with the trains which carried the mails, but on many roads the running of freight trains was entirely suspended. In some cities these disturbances culminated in the destruction of a large amount of merchandise in transit—of cars and locomotives. In some places the civil authorities invoked the aid of the militia, and a collision between the rioters and the authorities took place, resulting in the loss of life; and in some quarters the authority of the United States was invoked, and soldiers were sent to suppress the riots. Whilst turbulence was manifested, and lawless acts were done in St. Louis and other cities of this State, the civil authorities improvised some military companies, to be ready for the threatened and impending lawlessness. More than three thousand men were under arms at one time in St. Louis, ready to obey the orders of the civil authorities. Arms and prepared ammunition were publicly issued to the men. Companies, battalions and regiments were formed and organized for the fearful exigency. The promptness and willingness which the good citizens exhibited for the preservation of order, the enforcement of law, and finally to execute such orders as the emergency required should be given, caused the intended insurgents to disperse and to abandon their wicked designs. Quiet was restored in that great city, with no collision between the armed men and the rioters, with no destruction of property, and without the shedding of a single drop of human blood. It was the triumph of law and order over those who strove to inaugurate disorder, violence and bloodshed. But one or two military companies in St. Louis had maintained their organization. During these troubles I repaired to St. Louis. Gen. Mitchell, the Adjutant-General, remained here, in order to supply the authorities in other parts of the State with arms and ammunition when needed. The supply of ammunition belonging to the State was scant. When I found I could obtain from the authorities of the United States such ammunition as I required, I ordered 2,000 stands of muskets and accoutrements to St. Louis. Those guns, accoutrements and ammunition were by my orders issued to citizens who enrolled themselves in military companies at that time for the preservation of the peace of the city. The authorities of the city (after the strike was suppressed) requested me to let some guns remain, as they might be needed. I complied with the request. These guns, accoutrements and ammunition were issued by my orders—by my orders they were permitted to remain in St. Louis, and such as have not yet been issued to the militia are now in the hands of the police reserves. It is probable some of these guns have been lost. The Adjutant-General is responsible for them. All of the articles were issued at a time when forms could not be observed, and they were issued for the public good. If any of the arms and accoutrements can not be produced, I recommend a law be passed to relieve the Adjutant-General from his responsibility, or that his account shall be credited with such arms, etc., as can not be obtained.

THE MILITIA.

The experience of the year 1877 shows the necessity for the organization of the militia. Two battalions and three or four independent companies of the militia are organized in St. Louis; all but two companies have been organized since the strike. A few companies have been organized in other portions of the State. Of the police reserves I have only to say that as long as those who act as military officers shall be recognized as such, there will be no difficulty. No one is commissioned as such officer. Citizens of St. Louis encouraged opposition to the militia law, and therefore urged the organization of the police reserves, without the sanction of law. But I hope they will organize under the militia law. There are defects in the law, but I trust a patient hearing will be given those who seek to amend the law, and relieve it of some of the obstacles, real or imaginary, which deter patriotic citizens from organizing under it. A bill has been prepared by those who are earnestly engaged in the effort to make the militia law such as it should be. A well regulated militia is the bulwark of defense of our country. Listen, then, I beseech you, to the complaints of the militia men. Modify and change the law, if there shall be no valid objection to the proposition, so as to suit the wishes of those who propose to make it efficient, and who will subject themselves to its government. They deserve all the encouragement you can give them, and I wish it was in the power of the State to do more for them than can now be done.

LOST INSURANCE BILL.

Just at the close of the session of the last Legislature a bill, which originated in the House and which had passed both Houses, and was duly signed by the presiding officer of the Senate and the House, failed to reach the Executive. It was entitled "An act to regulate the forfeiture of policies of life insurance." This bill provided that no policy of insurance on life, after the payment upon it of two full annual premiums, shall be forfeited or become void by reason of the non-payment of premium thereon, but the net value of the policy shall be ascertained, and that sum shall be applied as a premium of temporary insurance. That bill never came into my hands—was never presented to me for approval. I should have approved it. I have endeavored to ascertain who purloined that bill, or prevented it from being presented to me, and have been unsuccessful. I did not know, till inquiry was made, that such a bill had passed. It was never delivered to me by the Clerk of the House of Representatives. I recommend a law be enacted containing provisions similar to those contained in that lost bill, and in addition thereto I advise the criminal law concerning records, etc., belonging to either House of the Legislature, or which may belong to any executive department, be amended so that a more efficient inquiry may be made for the offender than existing laws authorize. And perhaps it may be well to empower the Executive, whenever any paper which belonged to either

House of the Legislature, or which shall have been presented to the Governor, has been lost, destroyed or purloined, that he appoint a commission who may hold sessions anywhere in the State, vested with full power to bring persons before him, and them to examine touching the loss or destruction of the records ; and if, upon inquiry, the guilty party or parties shall be discovered, that the commissioner shall have power to cause him or them to be arrested, and, upon a hearing of the case, if there shall be probable evidence of the guilt of the accused, to recognize the guilty parties to appear before the proper court of the county where the offense was committed, and in default of bail, to commit them to jail to answer to an indictment to be preferred against them.

FISH CULTURE.

By virtue of an act passed by the last Legislature, provision was made for stocking the rivers of this State with fish. Young fish, principally salmon, have been sent to the Commissioner of this State by the Commissioner of the United States, and have been placed in our rivers. A further supply will be sent to this State during this year, and will probably be distributed in other streams. But a small sum of money was appropriated to defray the expenses which might be incurred, and therefore, unless the Legislature shall make a further appropriation for this object, a portion of the expense attendant on the transportation of the small fry must be defrayed by the citizens residing on the streams to be stocked with fish. The object is to stock our rivers with fish which will afford cheap and nutritious food. Fish culture is no longer an experiment. With very little expense and care the supply of fish of a better quality than those which swim in our streams will be largely increased. Before the close of the session, I expect to submit to you a report on this subject from the Commissioner.

THE OSAGE.

The Legislature at its last session appropriated $2,000 to be expended in removing obstructions to the navigation of the Osage river at Bolton shoals. I was authorized and required to appoint some practical business man, familiar with the character of that river, and having a knowledge of what was necessary to be done to remove the obstruction, to superintend the removal of the bar. By many it was believed that that sum of money was not sufficient to accomplish the work. I appointed Hon. Jos. W. McClurg, who possessed all the qualifications named in the act, to superintend the work. The obstruction to the navigation of the river is removed, and there is at that bar as great a depth of water as there is on the Shipley shoal, below the Bolton bar. The superintendent made no charge for his personal services in superintending that work, and there is a small balance of the appropriation unexpended. I trust there will be no farther requirement for the State to appropriate its moneys for the improvement of that river, as the United States has made an additional appropriation for that purpose, and will undoubtedly appropriate still further sums, to be disbursed in that direction. The improvement of the navigation of the Osage is a matter of vast importance to the people residing on the banks and in the vicinity of that river.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO CONSTITUTION.

The amendment proposed to the Constitution and submitted to the people at the late election was defeated by a large majority. In so far as it sought to add another qualification of suffrage, it very properly met with a strong and decided opposition. No property qualification, nor the payment of a tax, should be required as a prerequisite to exercising the right of suffrage. It is a duty to vote; it is a duty incumbent on all who are entitled to exercise the elective franchise to vote. Better would it be to impose a fine on those who are entitled to vote, and who without reasonable excuse fail to discharge that duty, than to disfranchise those who do not pay taxes. There is no prohibition in the Constitution against the levy of a poll-tax. Therefore, whenever the Legislature shall think proper to impose a poll-tax, to be applied to the support of the schools and institutions of learning, to the support of the State government, or to any other purpose or object not prohibited by the Constitution, it has the right so to do. During the last session of the Legislature I did recommend a poll-tax be levied, to be paid into the Revenue Fund. This recommendation was contained in the message in which I advised a loan be made in order to supply the deficiencies in the revenue. The loan was granted, but no provision was made for additional revenue. A bill for that purpose passed the Senate, but failed to receive the approval of the House.

THE PENITENTIARY.

The maintenance of the Penitentiary has been a very heavy drain upon the treasury. It would seem reasonable to expect the prisoners would not only be able, by their labor, to earn an amount sufficient to support themselves, but also to pay the salaries and wages of the officers and guards of the Penitentiary. But this has not been the case. The leasing system has been tried at different times, and has not proved a success. During the period the prison was first leased, the lessees made great improvements by erecting buildings and furnishing implements and machinery which were paid for by the State. In this manner the lessees paid the amount stipulated to be paid the State, but had large demands against the State for improvements made by them. The second period of leasing was so recent that it need only be referred to, as all know it was not a success, either to the State or to the lessees. The State has, by its officers in former times, conducted the penitentiary as a large manufacturing establishment, and in so doing has always lost money. It is not advisable for the State to again embark in manufacturing, but it is desirable, if possible, to make the penitentiary a self-sustaining institution. Legislation was proposed in each branch of the General Assembly, at its last session, respecting the management of the penitentiary, but beyond the appropriation of money, and its earnings for its support, nothing was done.

On the 31st of December, 1876, there were in the penitentiary, 1,332 prisoners, convicted for violation of the criminal laws of this State, and 14 convicts sent to the prison by the Federal courts. On the 31st day of last December, there were in the prison, 1,244 convicts of the State, and 50 convicts of the United States. The United States pays for the board and care of its convicts, and the State has the benefit of their labor. During the two years ending on the 31st of December, 1876, thirteen hundred and seventy (1370) prisoners were received, and for the two years ending on the 31st of December, 1878, eleven hundred and sixty-five (1165) prisoners were received, all of whom had been sentenced to the penitentiary by the courts of this State. This shows that, in the two years first named, 205 more persons were convicted and sent to the penitentiary than in the last two years. A rigid enforcement of our criminal laws has diminished the commission of crimes.

When the present Warden took charge of the penitentiary, there were many prisoners who were not employed by contractors, nor were they performing labor for the State. They were in idleness, because no one would employ them, and at that time the State had no work which they could perform. Many convicts were then worked outside the prison walls. Some were employed as servants, in this city; some were employed in grading and macadamizing streets; others at quarries, at lime kilns and brick kilns, at farms, and some on a steamer which navigated the Osage and Missouri rivers. The cost of maintaining the penitentiary had become very great. It was proper and right to put the convicts at hard labor; and if labor could not be provided for them within the walls, it was right to put them at labor without the walls. There was no doubt the law permitted this to be done. The object was to make the prisoners support themselves—to shift the burden of the maintenance from the tax-payers to themselves; and was not this right? A contract was made for the labor of convicts in some coal mines. This contract was made by the Inspectors with J. B. Price, and I approved of the same. In the communication of the Inspectors to the House of Representatives, they described the condition of affairs at the penitentiary as follows:

“They beg leave to suggest that there are over six hundred convicts locked up in their cells, whose labor can not be utilized within the penitentiary for want of contractors to employ them. If there were contractors to work them inside of the prison walls, there is not shop room nor facilities for so doing. This large number of idle and non-producing convicts is a very great expense to the State, independent of the immense costs of their trials, convictions and transportations to the prison. They can, they think, make the number let under the contract more than self-supporting, and their desire is to make the penitentiary self-sustaining. Their estimate is that the State will receive over the sum of $50,000 per annum for the hire of the said convict labor, under said contract, which otherwise would be non-productive.”

But it is said that when the convicts are worked outside of the prison walls their labor comes in competition with the labor of the honest man. Is not this so when the prisoner labors within the prison walls? When the prisoner is worked within the walls he must be employed in some mechanical pursuit; and is not the labor within the walls of the prison, by the convict, then brought in competition with the labor of the mechanics and the skilled workmen of the country? And if we are to prevent convict labor from coming in competition with honest labor, then no labor whatever can be performed by the convict, and he is to be kept in idleness, fed, clothed and guarded at the expense of the honest men of the country. If this is the policy to be pursued by the State, let the law-making power so indicate, and the will of the General Assembly in this respect will be observed. All the officers of the State, in any manner whatever connected with this branch of the public service, have no interest to subserve but the interest of the people of the State; nor are they wedded to the policy which has been pursued. If the prisoners are to be kept within the walls of the prison and only worked there, many of them must remain idle, or the State must forthwith enlarge the prison walls, erect additional workshops, and furnish more motive power for those shops. The financial condition of the State will not permit this to be done, for, whatever number of prisoners may be employed to labor for the State, they will bring no revenue into the treasury, but the treasury must defray the cost of their board, clothing and guard service. And again, the State must borrow money for this purpose, or greatly reduce the expenditures of the government. But the limit of a temporary loan has already been reached, and the State will be compelled to renew that loan, for a short period of time, and provide additional revenue.

It is well to compare the cost of managing and conducting the prison, and the number of prisoners, for a few years past. The prison, during the term hereinafter mentioned, until June, 1873, was managed and conducted as a manufacturing establishment by the State, and whatever was made by the labor of prisoners was applied to the support of the prison in addition to the money drawn from the treasury. From that date till November 22, 1875, the penitentiary was managed by the lessees, and from the date last named, it has been conducted by the State, and a large portion of the prisoners—as many as could be—were leased to contractors, who worked the prisoners within the walls of the prison, and the proceeds of their labor have been applied to the support of the penitentiary:

On this subject I desire to state facts only. A larger amount has been earned by the labor of prisoners during the past two years than was ever earned before. Those earnings have been applied to the support and maintenance of the prison. In addition to this, nearly all the labor used in the construction of the court-house was done by prison labor, commencing with the manufacture of the brick and cutting the wood wherewith to burn the brick, and quarrying the rock and erecting the building.

COUNTY AND PROBATE COURTS.

By special laws, made from time to time, we had destroyed the uniformity which once prevailed in the organization and jurisdiction of courts. Particularly was this the case with the county and probate courts. In some counties the county court was composed of seven judges; in some counties of five judges; in others of three judges, and in some counties of one judge only. In some counties, where the court consisted of three judges, the judge of the probate court was ex officio presiding justice of the county court. In all counties the county court had charge of and administered county affairs; in some counties the court was a probate court. With respect to the probate court—or court having probate jurisdiction—in some counties it was composed of one judge, in other counties of three judges. Some of the probate courts had exclusive jurisdiction of all demands against the estates of deceased persons, and other courts had exclusive jurisdiction of small amounts, and concurrent jurisdiction with the circuit courts of larger demands. By the acts of the last Legislature an uniform system of probate and of county courts was established. The county courts are now composed of three judges, and no more, and the compensation is fixed at $3 per day and mileage, instead of $5 per day, the former compensation. The per diem cost to a county is now $9, instead of the sum of $25, which was the per diem cost in many counties before the change of the law. The saving to the people in the amount paid to the judges of the county court ranges from $6 to $16 per day. Another saving in expense was made: the judges being of equal qualifications, three judges will dispose of more business in a day than five judges.

I have no doubt that in many cases the compensation or emoluments of county officers is too great. This is shown by the fact that in some counties candidates proposed to perform the duties of the office they sought, for a much less compensation than that prescribed by law, and the surplus, if any, they promised should be paid into the county treasury. I recommend, therefore, that you especially inquire into the amount paid to all officers, State or county, and if, in your wisdom and judgment, the compensation or salary is too great, that you regulate such salary or compensation by prescribing a lower and different compensation, wherever it may lawfully be done.

EDUCATION.

The cause of education is increasing, and has received encouragement to the extent of the ability of the State to render, in these times of financial distress. No one proposes to reduce the amount of the revenue which is directed to be set apart for the support of public schools, though this can only be done by amending the Constitution. There is but little doubt the sum to be distributed for the maintenance of the public schools will be an amount about equal to the sum apportioned for the year 1878 for the same purpose. The State University, including the Agricultural College and the School of Mines, is in a prosperous condition. The number of students has considerably increased under the present management. Its able professors, under the guidance of its distinguished president, attract pupils, not only from almost every portion of our State, but also from neighboring States. The Normal schools appear to prosper. Reports from these institutions will be submitted to you in the early part of the session, and to those reports I respectfully refer you for full information of their management. The report of the Superintendent of Public Schools will show you the condition of this branch of education. In connection with this matter, I suggest for your consideration whether it is not advisable to provide that the county public school fund, as well as the congressional township public school funds, shall be invested in the bonds of this State. These funds would have amounted to a much larger sum if suitable care had been taken, and the investments made in the securities of this State.

CHARITIES.

The reports of the charitable institutions, as well as other institutions of this State, are now required to be made to you at an early period of the session. The State has been liberal in providing good and substantial buildings for the uses to which they are applied. They are insufficient to provide for all of the indigent who may be dependent on charity, but the State can not now afford to enlarge those buildings. This State expended last year the sum of $589,956 for educational purposes, and for charities, $137,137.

REPEAL OF LAWS.

The act entitled "Indians" was enacted when there were Indians residing immediately on the borders of our State. It was intended to prevent Indians from coming into the State to hunt, and to prevent them from otherwise obtruding on the inhabitants of the State.

The act entitled "An act declaring the silver coins of the United States a legal tender in the State of Missouri," was one of questionable policy at the time it was adopted. It made the half dollars a legal tender for all sums, and the smaller coins of silver a legal tender in limited amounts, whilst by the laws of the United States these subsidiary coins are a legal tender to the amount of $5, and no more. The silver in the half dollar and the other small coins is of the same purity as in the dollar, but two half dollars do not contain as many grains of silver as the silver dollar contains. I recommend the statutes concerning Indians and making silver coins a legal tender be repealed. The one is of no farther use—the other is now a bad law.

SUIT WITH HANNIBAL AND ST. JOE RAILROAD COMPANY.

By virtue of the provisions of a joint resolution of the last General Assembly concerning the Hannibal and St. Joe Railroad, the Governor, with the concurrence of the Attorney-General, was authorized to employ counsel to enter the appearance of this State to a bill in equity pending in the Supreme Judicial Court of the State of Massachusetts, wherein the said railroad company was the complainant and Sidney Bartlett and other trustees were defendants, for the purpose of closing their trust. It was claimed this State had a lien on the proceeds of the sales of lands, after the extinguishment of a mortgage given in 1856 by the company, and that the surplus proceeds of such sales should be paid into the treasury of the State for the purpose of paying the bonds of this State loaned to the railroad company. The attention of the General Assembly was called to the subject by my predecessor, with the recommendation that the State should enter its appearance to that suit. Under the provisions of the joint resolution an able jurist of the State of Massachusetts—Benjamin P. Thomas—with whom a consultation had been previously held on this subject, was employed to enter the appearance of the State and to attend to its interests. The claim of the State was based on the 18th section of the act of December 10, 1855. The case was heard at the April term, 1877, of said court. The decision was adverse to the claim of this State, as will appear by the following extract from the decree of the court:

"Second. That the only interest of the State of Missouri in the lands conveyed by said trust indentures and in the proceeds of such of said lands as have been heretofore sold, and in the contracts for the sale of any of said lands heretofore made, is under the 18th section of the statutes of the State of Missouri, of the 10th of December, A. D. 1855, which requires the complainant to pay into the treasury of said State the surplus proceeds of all land sales, or such other securities as may be provided by the Hannibal and St. Joseph Railroad Company aforesaid, in a deed of trust or otherwise in a plan to be adopted by said company to raise funds to complete the road. That by the true construction of said statute, no such surplus can be held to exist, except such as would remain after deducting the amount of all expenses and obligations lawfully incurred by the incorporation in completing, equipping and putting in operation its railroad, including: 1. Sums advanced by the corporation to the trustees for expenses of the management, surveying and disposing of the lands granted under the acts of Congress, and included in the deeds of trust, and for taxes thereon, and to satisfy reclamations for bad titles and other incidental expenses. 2. Sums paid by the corporation, either in money or in stock, to discharge the bonds issued by the corporation and secured by the deeds of trust, including the interest on such lands.

"Third. That it is found by the report of the Master, and adjudged by the court, that the whole value of the lands now held under the said deeds of trust, and of all the proceeds of lands sold, and investments of the same, now held by said trustees, is much less than the amount of the deductions aforesaid to which the complainants are entitled, before there will be any 'surplus' to which the right of the State of Missouri can attach."

The sum of $2,000, which was appropriated to pay counsel for services in that suit, was not drawn from the Treasury, for the court ordered the trustees to pay to Benj. P. Thomas, Esq., out of the proceeds of the land sales in their hands, the compensation to which he was entitled.

SENATOR BOGY.

Since the adjournment of the Legislature, Hon. Lewis V. Bogy, one of our Senators in Congress, departed this life. He was a native of this State, and his life had been devoted to the advancement of the material interests of our State. His eulogy has been pronounced by those more intimately acquainted with him than I, some of whom served with him on that theater, which from his boyhood days it had been his ambition to occupy, and which he did occupy with great credit to himself. It will be your duty to fill his unexpired term, now held by Hon. D. H. Armstrong.

CONCLUSION.

In the matters I have submitted for your consideration, I have not attempted to support them by arguments, but to state the facts and conclusions to which I have been brought by my deliberate judgment, and I trust the result of your deliberations will be to promote the welfare and to increase the prosperity of the people of this State.

MR. SPEAKER: Your Committee on Permanent Seat of Government, to whom was referred the resolutions that the Commissioner of Permanent Seat of Government take steps at the earliest time possible to prevent the leakage of water into the rooms of the capitol building, would respectfully submit the following report:

That at the earliest practicable moment after the adoption of the resolution referred to, the committee inspected the roof of the capitol building with a view of ascertaining the cause of the leak and providing the means of remedying it. The roof was found to be covered with ice and snow to such an extent as to prevent a thorough examination; and at the request of the committee, the Warden of the Penitentiary furnished a sufficient number of convicts to clear off all obstructions and allow a free passage of water through the pipes. A mechanic has also, under the direction of the Commissioner, been employed to mend the leaks on the roof, and the committee have reason to believe that no further leakage will occur; which was read.

2. That the chairman of the Committee on Penitentiary is hereby authorized to appoint a clerk, who shall discharge the duties of clerk for the committees both on Penitentiary and Criminal Jurisprudence.

3. That the chairman of the Committee on Retrenchment and Reform is hereby authorized to appoint a clerk, who shall discharge the duties of clerk for the Committee on Retrenchment and Reform, the Committee on Agriculture and the Committee on Roads and Highways.

7. That no committee clerk shall receive pay for any time prior to the adoption of this resolution, except the clerk of the Committee on Accounts—the appointments above provided for to be made whenever, in the opinion of the chairman authorized to make the appointment, there is sufficient business before the committee to require the services of a clerk; which was read.

MR. SPEAKER: Your committee, to whom was referred a resolution asking for information as to the number of copies of reports of each of the above named institutions ought to be published and the cost thereof, beg leave to report that they believe it will require two thousand copies of each report to supply the wants of the institution and the members of the Legislature. From information obtained of public printer it will cost $56, approximately, to print two thousand copies of Deaf and Dumb Asylum report, and $124 dollars to publish two thousand copies of the report of Asylum No. 2. Should the House order two thousand copies of each of the above institutions printed, it will cost $150 less than was paid by the State for the printing of the last biennial report of the above named institutions.

The committee suggest, in view of the fact that additional copies cost but a trifle after the first impression, that if the House should order the printing of said reports it would be better to print more than two thousand than less than that number.

Your committee also report in relation to resolution asking one thousand copies of the report of Asylum No. 2 be printed for the use of the House, beg to report that they are not of opinion that the House requires so great a number; which was read and adopted.

The following message was received from the Governor, through his private Secretary, Mr. Yost :

EXECUTIVE OFFICE, CITY OF JEFFERSON, }
January 21, 1879. }

SIR: It is provided "the State Treasurer shall, immediately after his election or appointment, execute and deliver to the Governor a bond to the State in the sum of one million dollars, with no less than ten securities, to be approved by the Governor, conditioned for the faithful performance of all the duties required, or which may be required of him by law, and for the safety of the State's funds and securities in his custody, which bond shall be renewed every two years." At the time this law was enacted, the term of office of the Treasurer was only two years. It was further provided that if the Treasurer shall fail to give his official bond, as required by law, within sixty days from the day he shall receive his certificate of election or appointment, his office shall thereby be forfeited. The State Treasurer did give his official bond on the 8th day of January, 1877, which is the date of his commission, and within sixty days from the day he received his certificate of election ; and therefore his office cannot be declared forfeited. The statute further provides, to relieve all doubt, that "the securities of any treasurer, or auditor, shall be held responsible for all acts of their principal till his successor is elected or appointed, commissioned and qualified." The State Treasurer has presented to me a bond for my approval. I cannot approve it, although the sureties justify, in the aggregate, to more than one million of dollars, for only a small portion of the means of one of the wealthiest sureties is within the jurisdiction of this State. Hence, if the State should seek redress from the sureties, it might be compelled to go to other jurisdictions to prosecute its suits.

This bond is presented in renewal of the bond given when he entered on the discharge of his duties as Treasurer. I have no power to compel the Treasurer to renew his bond. I have delayed making a communication of this important matter to the General Assembly, because I have expected a bond, with good and sufficient sureties, would be tendered for my approval. According to the terms of the law, the office is not forfeited, nor is there a vacancy. The office is not forfeited, because it is not declared if the Treasurer shall fail to renew his official bond at the expiration of two years, the office shall be forfeited. This law was made to require a new bond when a Treasurer should be re-elected, and since the tenure of the office of Treasurer has been enlarged, with immediate ineligibility, the law has not been changed to meet such exigency.

Additional legislation is requisite to accomplish the object intended. The Treasurer's bond should be renewed at least every two years, and oftener if the surety shall become inadequate. The penalty for not renewing the official bond at the expiration of two years, or when the sureties shall have died, removed from the State, or become insolvent, and a new bond shall be required, should be removal from office, and this to be done with the advice of the Attorney-General, or the advice of a Judge of the Supreme Court.

A bond with a smaller penalty than one million dollars—perhaps in the sum of from $500,000 to $750,000—would be amply sufficient to insure the faithful performance of the duties of State Treasurer, and to secure the State from loss, provided there were suitable and proper laws to enforce the provisions of the 15th section of the 10th article of the Constitution, and provided also, that the Public School Fund and the Seminary Fund of the State shall be made safe in the manner recommended by me in my message, or in some other equally secure manner. It is a difficult matter to give security for one million of dollars, and a bond for a less amount may be good security to the State for the moneys which may be in the custody of the State Treasurer. I hope the General Assembly will speedily legislate on this subject and prescribe how the moneys of the State shall be deposited with banks, and the kind of security which shall be required, and whether the penalty of the bond of the Treasurer shall be of less amount than now prescribed, and also when the office of Treasurer shall be forfeited.

In my opinion, the deposit of the money of the State with banks, with or without interest, except a small amount for the purpose of paying creditors in distant parts of the State, is bad policy; but it is a constitutional requirement, and must be obeyed.

JOHN S. PHELPS.

HON. J. EDWARD BELCH, Speaker House of Representatives.

The following message was received from the Governor, through his Private Secretary, Mr. Yost:

EXECUTIVE OFFICE, }
JEFFERSON CITY, January 28, 1879. }

HON. J. ED. BELCH, Speaker House of Representatives:

SIR: I have the honor to submit the first report of John Reid, Esq., Fish Commissioner of this State, showing what measures have been taken to increase the supply of food-fish in the streams of this State. I am of opinion a larger sum of money can be profitably expended in stocking the streams of our State with fish, than was appropriated for that purpose.

Very respectfully,

JOHN S. PHELPS.

To the HON. JOHN S. PHELPS, Governor of Missouri:

The Fish Commissioner of Missouri, appointed in accordance with the law of 1877, respectfully reports the following as the result of his work to the present date:

During the fall of 1878, I received from the “United States Commissioner of fish and fisheries,” two hundred thousand eggs of the California salmon, for the use of the State of Missouri. There is no establishment for hatching embryo in our State, consequently this lot was sent to the State hatchery of Iowa, to be developed. The spawn arrived in excellent condition, and it is gratifying to announce about ninety-five per cent. were hatched. After they were sufficiently grown, I made arrangements to have the young fry brought to St. Louis for distribution, giving general notice through the press, that they would arrive there in two installments, the first about the 20th of December, 1878, the second about the 5th of January, 1879.

I solicited applications from all who might feel sufficient interest in the enterprise, to give their personal attention to planting them properly; a very general correspondence ensued, yet, as the cans containing the minnows, in no instance, had less than ten thousand, it was not possible for me to furnish a less number; in some instances, consequently, requisitions were not filled. The very remarkable cold prevailing at the time fixed for distribution, prevented others, who had solicited portions, from appearing to receive what had been allotted to them. Still the work of planting about one hundred and ninety thousand young California samlets in Missouri waters has been accomplished in a very satisfactory manner.

In the Meramec and tributaries.....	60,000
In the series of lakes and private waters of St. Louis county	35,000
In Spring river and tributaries.....	30,000
In the Lamine and other streams of Cooper county...	15,000
At Pierce City, for the system of waters from the southwest, heading in that vicinity.....	50,000

In the execution of this work, for the very valuable assistance rendered, and without which it would not have been accomplished, my thanks are due to the Hon. Basil Duke of St. Louis, to the Hon. Henry T. Mudd of Kirkwood, to Dr. J. R. Hereford, H. A. Stephens, Oscar Reid, Mei. Glassgow, T. Jefferson Clark, Esq., and others of St. Louis county, to the Hon. H. J. Maynard of Pierce City, to Judge Jas. P. Betts of Carthage, and Col. Jos. L. Stephens of Boonville; and in this conjunction, I especially desire to acknowledge the courtesy of Capt. Rodgers, Superintendent of the St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad; he generously passed my agent and stock of fish, without charge for transportation.

I respectfully suggest to your Excellency the importance of having within our own territory, a State hatchery, from whence all the considerable streams of the State could be rapidly stocked, at a comparatively small cost; and individuals for their private lakes, might in moderate quantities, (without cost,) under the direction of the Commissioner, be supplied with such varieties as they desired.

That our waters can be restocked and made, in a few years, to yield food-fishes, as abundantly as of yore, has been demonstrated by the success attending the efforts made, in twenty States, preceding ours, in the undertaking. The appropriation made for the purpose by the Legislature of 1877 is inadequate. In my judgment instead of one, the commission should consist of three or five persons; the correspondence entails more work, the expenditures and distributions more responsibility than one individual should be expected to perform gratuitously.

Very respectfully,

JOHN REID,

Fish Commissioner of Missouri.

Which was read.

The following message was received from the Governor through his Private Secretary, Mr. Yost:

EXECUTIVE OFFICE, }
JEFFERSON CITY, January 28, 1879. }

HON. J. ED. BELCH, Speaker of the House of Representatives:

SIR: I have the honor to submit to you a report from the Board of Managers of State Lunatic Asylum No. 2, announcing the total destruction of that Asylum on the 25th inst., by fire.

More than two hundred patients were in the Asylum at the time of the destruction, and, at the present time, these people are dependent on the charity of the citizens of St. Joseph for shelter and support. This is not the time to consider the question of rebuilding that Asylum. We must, first, provide for the health and comfort of these unfortunate people. Immediate temporary relief is required. The act of 1875 prohibits the officers having control of educational, eleemosynary or other public institutions belonging to the State, from contracting, for the use of such institutions, any debt for which there shall not be, at the time, any adequate appropriation. The appropriation for the support of that Asylum is already exhausted, and, therefore, the managers are prohibited from making contracts for the care, support and protection of these people. I recommend an appropriation be made for the immediate relief of those who were inmates of the Asylum at the time of its destruction.

Perhaps some of those patients may be taken care of at the Asylum at Fulton. It may be advisable to send another portion of them to their homes, and others may be taken care of at St. Joseph. Justice and humanity demand prompt action. A committee of the Board of Managers of that Asylum is in this city, and will be glad to furnish any further information which may be required.

Very respectfully,

JOHN S. PHELPS.

WHEREAS, It is believed to be the settled conviction of a large majority of the reflecting men of the State of Missouri, that the method in use for more than fifteen years past, of voting at all elections held under the laws of the State, by secret ballot, detracts from the manhood and independence of the voter, and conduces to, and facilitates fraud in our elections; and,

WHEREAS, The holding of general elections for the choice of State officers on the same day that members of Congress and Presidential Electors are chosen, as experience has shown, opens up an easy and convenient pretext for Federal interference and usurpation, and is utterly destructive of the will of the people, and the rights of the State—therefore, with the earnest view and purpose of devising a remedial system for existing evils, and of preventing the recurrence of those foreshadowed in this second preamble; be it

Resolved, That the Committee of the Judiciary of this House be, and they are hereby instructed to take into immediate and earnest consideration, the propriety of returning to the “viva voce” system of voting as practiced by our fathers, in the earlier, purer and happier days of our commonwealth—and that said committee are hereby further instructed to consider the wisdom and propriety of changing the time of holding our State general elections, to a day different from that on which members of Congress and Presidential Electors are chosen, so that the Federal Government can have no pretext whatever, for pestilential interference in our local self-government, and despoiling our State of its dignity and sovereignty—as it has ruthlessly dared to do in several other States of this Union; and,

2. That said committee report by bill or otherwise to this House at the earliest practicable day; which was read, and referred to the Committee on Elections.

AUDITOR'S OFFICE, }
CITY OF JEFFERSON, Jan. 30, 1879. }

HON. J. ED. BELCH, Speaker of the House of Representatives :

SIR :—In compliance with a resolution of the House, adopted Jan. 29th, 1879, requesting a statement of the amount of money expended in the last ten years by committees of the House and Senate in visiting State institutions situated at all points distant from the city of Jefferson, I have the honor to submit the following :

In visiting the Deaf and Dumb, Insane and Blind Asylums, the State University and Normal Schools, the expenses of the House and Senate committees of the 27th General Assembly, paid in 1873 and 1874, amounted to $2,156.

The expenses of like committees of the 28th General Assembly in visiting the same institutions and School of Mines, paid in 1875, amount to $1,467.05.

For expenses incurred by committee of the 29th General Assembly in visiting State institutions, the amount paid in 1877 was $1,431.43.

The Speaker laid before the House the following communication from the Register of Lands:

OFFICE OF REGISTER OF LANDS, }
CITY OF JEFFERSON, February 3, 1879. }

HON. J. ED. BELCH, Speaker of the House of Representatives of the 30th General Assembly:

SIR:—A copy of the resolution adopted by the House of Representatives on the 31st ult., requesting an itemized bill, as near as practicable, of the amount of contingent expenses asked for the use of my office for the years 1879 and 1880, has been furnished me.

In reply, I will state that it is impossible for me to make an itemized bill of my contingent expenses, as requested. The only item of necessary expenses—the amount of which I can state—is postage, say $150 for the next two years.

If a janitor is to be paid out of my contingent fund, I will need an appropriation for that purpose, and unless an appropriation is made for the general repair of the capitol building, the repairs which are greatly needed in my office, will have to be paid for out of this fund. I will need some new shelving for records, to be forwarded from Washington—cant say what the cost will be. I may also have to pay the freight bill.

There are many little items of expense, such as cleaning office, repairing furniture, etc., that cannot be estimated.

I can only say that whatever sum is appropriated will be properly and judiciously expended.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JAS. E. McHENRY,

Register of Lands.

Which was read.

On motion of Mr. Price, the House adjourned until 9½ o'clock to-morrow morning.

TWENTY-SECOND DAY—TUESDAY, February 4, 1879.

Mr. Bryan offered the following resolution :

Resolved, That the Special Committee appointed by this House to investigate the charges against the Doorkeeper, be and they are hereby authorized to employ the Sergeant-at-Arms of the House to summon witnesses before it, and they are further authorized to employ a clerk to take testimony before it, at a price not exceeding five dollars per day, for the time actually engaged in such service ; which was read and adopted.

Mr. Riley offered the following resolution :

WHEREAS, It is represented to this House that by the burning of State Asylum No. 2, 217 insane patients are now without permanent provision for their recovery, occasioned by the loss of said building ; and,

WHEREAS, On account of this character of afflictions, these unfortunates are rendered entirely helpless and dependent :

Resolved, That, in the opinion of the House, it is the duty of the State to provide ample and suitable buildings for these unfortunates ; and,

WHEREAS, The last General Assembly issued bonds of the State to the amount of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars ($250,000), which said bonds mature on the 1st day of July, 1879, and the probabilities are that there will be no money in the treasury at the time of maturing, to liquidate the same, and this deficiency in the revenue will render it necessary to provide for said indebtedness ; and,

WHEREAS, Doubts have been expressed as to power of the Legislature to issue bonds and create a debt for the erection of proper buildings for the care of said unfortunates, under the emergency clause of the Constitution in second subdivision of section 44 of article 4 of the Constitution of the State of Missouri :

Resolved, That the Attorney-General be, and is hereby respectfully requested to give his opinion, in writing, at his earliest possible *

The Speaker laid before the House the following communication from R. D. Shannon, Superintendent of Public Schools:

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SCHOOLS, }
OFFICE OF SUPERINTENDENT. }
CITY OF JEFFERSON, February 4th, 1879. }

To the Honorable Thirtieth General Assembly:

GENTLEMEN:—In response to the resolution of January 31st, offered by Hon. R. C. Palmer, I have to submit the following:

There are three separate heads of appropriation, which affect my office, and are designated as follows:

Traveling expenses Superintendent Public Schools ;
Contingent expenses Superintendent Public Schools ;
Distribution of Laws and Circulars to School officers.

The first arises from the requirements of section 49 of the school law, under which I must spend, annually, five days in each congressional district of the State, in the performance of duties prescribed. The average expense under this head has, for the last three years, (1876-7-8,) been a trifle over $300 per annum, that for 1878 having been advanced by me for the State, from private resources. There is, of necessity, in some portions of the State, much travel by stage coach and private conveyance, which trebles the expense per mile on railroad lines. I cannot possibly meet this requirement on a less sum than $300 annually, and in that is no provision for possible contingency which might arise.

The second head of appropriation, Contingent Fund proper, covers items which cannot be estimated or anticipated. It is for contingencies liable to arise at any moment. They may come from the wearing out or breaking down of office furniture, the burning out of the inside lining of the stoves, brooms, dusters, twine for wrapping, letter books for retaining copies of decisions and correspondence, telegraphing, postage, expressage, necessary printing not properly allowed from other appropriations, janitor's services, etc.. etc. In the last two years, although the 29th General Assembly appropriated $900, I did not expend over $661.40, being careful to purchase nothing that I could possibly get along without, even impairing, in some instances, the efficiency of the office by such a course.

Under the third head of appropriation, the counties receive all the blanks for making reports used by school district officials, in complying with the law; copies of the school law and of the Superintendent's report, printed under the order of the General Assembly. It also pays for the labor in counting, apportioning, packaging and addressing the blanks, forms, laws, etc., sent out from my office. The whole State is supplied through my office in this manner, the printing being done under the public contract, is much cheaper than if done in the counties, and uniformity is also secured.

The necessities of 1879 will be much greater than those of 1880, for the reason that an entire new edition of the school law, (30,000 copies) will, in all probability, have to be printed this year, and the cost of postage and expressage, as well as labor in apportioning and packaging, will be materially increased thereby. The inter-State exchange of school reports is no small item, and requests for the report of the Superintendent of Schools come from all portions of the United States. The largest demand for these, however, is from the United States

Bureau of Education, and from foreign consuls in this country, desiring Missouri statistics for foreign countries. As the spread of these documents are conducive to immigration, we cannot, of course, expect them to pay postage or expressage from here to their place of business and onward to destination, yet hoping to profit from the circulation. We pay no expressage on documents outside of the United States. The items of expenditure under this head may be classed as: postage, expressage, printing and a small amount for labor. We weigh all matter of the character prescribed, and by schedules of rates ascertain the cheapest method of transportation, to ensure safe delivery as well as rapid transit, and send it by either of the two found least expensive. As weight and volume are the constituent elements of expense under this head, no estimate can be given that will approximate the amount of money needed, for the weight and volume of these things are not known and cannot be estimated. Suffice it to say, that no more will be expended than is absolutely necessary under a strict construction of legislative design, though four times the sum be appropriated. The expenditures for 1877 and 1878 are all those found on page 80, on the bottom of 81 and on page 112 of the State Auditor's report for those years.

I have the honor to be,

Very respectfully,

R. D. SHANNON,

Sup't Public Schools.

Which was read.

MR. SPEAKER: I am instructed by the Senate to inform the House of Representatives that the Senate has taken up and passed House joint and concurrent resolution No. 14, entitled Joint and concurrent resolution providing for the appointment of a special committee to revise all the Statute Laws of the State of Missouri, with the accompanying amendments, in which the concurrence of the House is respectfully requested; which was read.

OFFICE OF ATTORNEY GENERAL, }
CITY OF JEFFERSON, February 4, 1879. }

HON. J. ED. BELCH, Speaker of the House of Representatives:

DEAR SIR:—I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of a copy of the resolution, adopted by the House of Representatives on the 31st ult., requesting the Attorney-General, among others, “to furnish this House with an itemized bill, as nearly as practicable, of the amount of contingent expenses asked for the use of their respective departments during the years 1879 and 1880,” and, in reply thereto, I will state that I am not advised by said resolution what amount of fund for the payment of the contingent expenses of this office is proposed to be appropriated; nor have I any information on the subject, except the verbal statement of the Auditor, that the same amount would be estimated as was appropriated for the years 1877 and 1878. I have no means of making the “itemized bill” requested, not knowing what contingencies may arise which will require the expenditure of said fund. It will be needed to defray the personal expenses of the Attorney-General when attending to criminal, revenue and other cases in which the State is interested at places other than the capital, to purchase the necessary postage stamps for the use of this office, for the payment of box rent, certified copies of unpublished opinions of foreign courts for use in cases in the courts of this State, express and telegraph charges, necessary repairs of office furniture, and many other items which may arise, and which it is impossible to anticipate or to now enumerate, and of which no reliable “itemized bill” can be made. I can not, therefore, definitely fix the amount that will be required. I am unable to give the House of Representatives any further information which might aid the members thereof in determining the amount to be allowed for the purpose stated.

I have the honor to be,

Very respectfully,

J. L. SMITH,

Attorney-General.

Which was read.

The Speaker laid before the House the following communication from the State Auditor:

AUDITOR'S OFFICE, }
CITY OF JEFFERSON, February 5, 1879. }

HON. J. ED. BELCH, Speaker House Representatives Thirtieth General Assembly:

SIR:—In response to the resolution of your honorable body, requesting an itemized estimate of the expenditures necessary for the transacting the business of this department for the years 1879 and 1880, I have the honor to present the following estimate:

For postage.....	$700 00
For expressage.....	25 00
For telegraphing.....	50 00
For office books.....	25 00
For repairing office and furniture.....	100 00
For janitor.....	360 00
For miscellaneous.....	50 00
Total	$1,310 00

The above is, in my opinion, the very smallest amount the department can be managed with. I have not included, however, in the estimate of contingent expenses, the item of extra clerk hire necessary to count and cancel the bonds and coupons twice in each year, believing that the General Assembly will see the importance of such provision.

I have the honor to be,

Respectfully,

THOS. HOLLADAY,

State Auditor.

Which was read.

The Speaker laid before the House the following communication from the Secretary of State:

DEPARTMENT OF STATE,
CITY OF JEFFERSON, February 4, 1879. }

To the Hon. J. ED. BELCH, Speaker of the House of Representatives:

SIR:—I have the honor, in compliance with a resolution of the Honorable the House of Representatives, of 31st ultimo, to report that the contingent expenses of the office of the Secretary of State are made up chiefly of three items, namely: Necessary postage, expressage and telegrams. For these the amount paid out annually runs from $500 to $600, as may be seen by reference to the State Auditor's reports for several years past.

All the other incidental contingent expenses of the office, the items of which vary and cannot be anticipated, as will also be seen by the Auditor's reports, do not exceed $50 a year, unless the pay of a janitor be computed—this, $15 a month. I have the honor to be,

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MICH'L K. McGRATH,

Secretary of State.

Which was read.

The Speaker laid before the House the following communication from the State Librarian :

OFFICE STATE LIBRARIAN, }
February 3, 1879. }

Hon. J. ED. BELCH, Speaker House of Representatives :

SIR:—In obedience to a resolution of the House, requesting me to give the House an itemized bill, as near as practicable, of the amount of contingent expenses asked for and needed by the State Library for the years 1879 and '80, I have the honor to say, that heretofore the contingent expenses of the State Library have been paid out of the general contingent fund, and that no separate contingent fund for the use of said library has ever been made.

But, if the General Assembly contemplate making such a fund, the contingent expenses of the library will be about as follows :

For pay of janitor.....	$480 00
Stationery and postage stamps.....	150 00
Binding books, some of which were soiled by water leaking through the roof.....	250 00
Express and freight charges on books.....	150 00
Repairing and replacing furniture, shelving, stoves, gas-fix- tures, etc.....	150 00
Total.....	$1,180 00

The expenses for fuel and lights, used by the library, are paid out of the Supreme Court contingent fund. I have the honor to be,

Very respectfully, etc.,

HENRY W. EWING,

State Librarian.

Mr. Riley, from the Committee on Lunatic Asylums, submitted the following report:

REPORT OF ASYLUM COMMITTEE.

MR. SPEAKER: Your Committee on Lunatic Asylum beg leave to submit the following report of their visit to Asylum No. 2, located at St. Joseph. On the afternoon of the 29th ult., your committee, with a similar committee of the Senate, arrived at the city of St. Joseph, and immediately repaired to the Asylum grounds, near that place. After a thorough inspection of the property, it returned to the city, and on the following day repaired to the court house, and after organizing the committees into a joint committee, called before it the officers and managers of the Asylum, and required from them:

- A. First—The evidence, in writing, as to the origin of the fire.
- B. Second—A copy of the pay-roll for the month of December, 1878.
- C. Third—A list of the employes of the Asylum at the present time.
- D. Fourth—An estimate of the value of all the property belonging to the State, at Asylum No. 2.
- E. Fifth—A report from competent architects and builders as to the value of the Asylum buildings and materials on the ground.
- H. Sixth—A list of the pay patients.
- G. Seventh—A report from the Superintendent, suggesting for temporary relief of the patients; also, a plan for temporary buildings for their use.

The committee arrived at the conclusion that the fire was the result of accident, and in nowise chargeable to any negligence on the part of the Superintendent or any of the employes of the Institution. The evidence on that subject is clear and satisfactory, and is hereby appended, marked A. We herewith annex a copy of the pay-roll for December, 1878, marked B; also, a list of the employes at the present time, marked C.

Your committee caused an inventory to be made of all the property of the State on the Asylum grounds, and had the same assessed by competent men. The aggregate assessed value of said property, real and personal, amounts to $115,389.50, which will more fully appear by reference to exhibit D.

The report of the board of architects and builders, made at the request of your committee, touching the value of the Asylum property and its present condition, is herewith marked E.

It appears that the value of the building material now on the ground, available for rebuilding the Asylum, is $67,275, and that by using said material the edifice can be replaced as before for $88,725, all of which will more fully appear by reference to said report.

In response to the request of your committee, a list of the pay patients was rendered by the treasurer and hereby appended, marked F; also, a plan of Superintendent Collett for temporary buildings for the use of the insane, until more permanent quarters can be provided, together with his reports, is hereby appended.

Your committee found, on their arrival at St. Joseph, that a large number of the patients from the Asylum were cared for at the court house, a number of them at the Medical Hospital, some at private houses, and a few convalescents were, by leave of the Superintendent, taken to their homes temporarily; that they were well cared for and comfortable in all respects.

The court house used at present for asylum purposes, is a new, very large and commodious structure, as well adapted for its present use as any building could be, not erected for Asylum purposes.

A drawing of the same, showing its interior arrangements and size, accompanies this report.

Since the recent visit of your committee, they have received from the board of managers assurances that the county court of Buchanan county, in which the Asylum is situated, has placed the court house at the disposal of the State for Asylum purposes, until permanent buildings could be erected on the grounds of the Asylum, at the convenience of and without any expense to the State; that now all the patients of Asylum No. 2 are lodged in the court house upon the second floor of the building, in large, light, airy quarters, and the cook-room, bath-room dining-room, etc., are in the basement, which has been fitted up for the purpose.

In this connection, the committee calls attention to the communication of Ex-Governor Woodson, acting President of the Board of Managers of Asylum No. 2, as well as the resolutions of the Board of Trade of the city of St. Joseph, endorsing the action of said Board of Trade and guaranteeing the fulfillment of the promises contained therein, which are hereto attached as part hereof, marked H and I.

When the Asylum was destroyed the inmates were left with only the clothing upon them when the fire occurred. To relieve their destitution the citizens of St. Joseph, with rare liberality, contributed money and fabrics, from their private means, sufficient to replace all their losses, and the ladies of the city, with benevolence unsurpassed, exerted themselves untiringly in behalf of the unfortunates, filling a large hall with sewing machines, and with their own hands worked early and late in the cause of humanity and mercy. They deserve well of the State and are entitled to its thanks.

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN T. RILEY,

Chairman of Lunatic Asylum.

The Speaker laid before the House the following communication from the State Auditor :

AUDITOR'S OFFICE,
CITY OF JEFFERSON, February 7, 1879. }

HON. J. ED. BELCH, Speaker House of Representatives :

SIR:—In compliance with the resolution of your honorable body, requesting me to furnish an itemized estimate of the general contingent fund for 1879 and 1880, I have to say: The demands on this appropriation cannot be definitely anticipated, but the following is as near as can be given:

Gas for State departments.....	$500 00
Fuel for State departments.....	600 00
Commissioner's janitor at $30 per month...	720 00
Night watchman at $50 per month.....	1,200 00
Expressage and postage.....	50 00
Miscellaneous.....	930 00
Total.....	$4,000 00

The item of "miscellaneous" covers many things that cannot be estimated. Reference to page 120 of Auditor's report will give information on which to base conclusions.

The amount appropriated for the years 1877 and 1878 was $6,000, which was not sufficient, because the pay of the janitors of the several departments came out of the general contingent fund. If the janitors are to be paid out of it for the years 1879 and 1880, it will be necessary, in addition to the above, to add $1,800, making a total of $5,800. In my estimates of contingencies at page 7 of my report, I put this fund at $4,000. In making up the estimates of contingent expenses of the several State departments, the pay for janitors was included, which increased them as compared with the amounts paid in 1877 and 1878. In my opinion the janitors should be paid out of the contingent expenses of the several departments, and if that is done such appropriations should be increased accordingly, and the general contingent fund decreased from the amount appropriated by the last General Assembly. I have the honor to be,

Respectfully,

THOS. HOLLADAY,

State Auditor.

The Speaker laid before the House the following communication from the judges of the Supreme Court:

HON. J. ED. BELCH, Speaker of the House of Representatives:

SIR:—The resolution of inquiry, adopted by the body over which you preside, propounding certain interrogatories to "the judges of the Supreme Court," is before us, and, in answer to the first interrogatory, we would state, that we have had the clerk of the court carefully to examine the records and dockets of the court, so far as necessary to enable us to answer the interrogatory, and he reports that from October, 1876, to the close of the April term, 1879, the court disposed of 918 cases, an average of 419 annually.

With regard to the second interrogatory, we answer, that 442 cases were appealed to the April and October terms, 1877, and 406 cases to the April and October terms, 1878.

For answer to the third interrogatory, we give it as our opinion, that the passage of the bill providing for the appointment of a commission will very materially aid the court in the disposition of the causes now pending.

The fourth interrogatory we cannot answer definitely:

"How long it will take the court to dispose of the cases now on docket, and the cases filed in said court, while it is disposing of the present cases," depends upon the number and character of the cases that may be appealed while we are disposing of those now pending. As we are not gaining materially on the docket, we presume that if there is no decrease in litigation in the future, it will be many years before, if ever, if we get up with the docket.

For answer to the fifth interrogatory, our opinion is that a cause appealed, if it takes its regular course, will not be heard within two and a-half years.

The last interrogatory is in relation to the constitutionality of the bill now before the House, providing for a commission. We have no doubt as to its constitutionality. It does not propose to establish a court or to confer any judicial power upon the commission. It compels no party to a cause appealed to the court, to submit it to the commission, either to be heard or decided by the commission. The commission can neither make an order, render a judgment, nor promulge an opinion in any cause which may be referred to it, under the provisions of this bill.

Very respectfully,

T. A. SHERWOOD,
W. B. NAPTON,
WARWICK HOUGH,
JNO. W. HENRY,
E. H. NORTON.

On motion of Mr. McIntyre, the committee resolved to proceed now to the election of one clerk of the committee, and he placed in nomination Nat. C. Dryden.

Mr. Anderson filed the application of Thos. P. Hoy and J. N. Hutchinson for clerk of this committee, and Mr. McDaniel laid before the committee written recommendation of M. R. Downs, of Kansas City, for a clerkship in the committee. The committee then proceeded to a vote, which resulted as follows, viz.: For Nat. C. Dryden—Messrs. Anderson, McDaniel and McIntyre. And these being a majority in his favor of all those voting, Nat. C. Dryden was declared elected clerk to the committee.

Mr. Campbell of St. Louis city made the point of order that the bill having been ordered to engrossment and printing on the 1st day of February, the motion to reconsider the vote by which the bill was ordered to engrossment and printing, was in contravention of section 23, article 7 of the rules of the House, which provides that when a motion has once been made and carried in the affirmative or negative, it shall be in order for any member who voted on the side which prevailed to move a reconsideration thereof on the same day or within three days, but not thereafter, nor at any time after the paper on which the vote passed is out of the possession of the House, or the vote shall have been communicated to the Senate.

SICK—Mr. Adams—1.

The title of the bill was read and agreed to.

Mr. Wells moved to reconsider the vote by which the bill passed and to lay his motion to reconsider on the table; which was agreed to.

Mr. Bonham introduced bill No. 424, entitled An act to establish a Board of Immigration and to prescribe the powers and duties thereof, and to repeal chapter 61 of the General Statutes and all acts amendatory thereto; which was read the first time and laid over.

Mr. Collins, from the Committee on Federal Relations, submitted the following report:

MR. SPEAKER: Your Committee on Federal Relations, to whom was referred House concurrent resolution No. 12, entitled Concurrent resolution requesting the Representatives, and instructing the Senators in the Congress of the United States from this State, to take action concerning national finances, beg leave to report that they have considered the same, and recommend that it do not pass, for the following, amongst other reasons:

First—That the author of the resolution appeared before the committee at its last meeting, and requested and insisted that it be reported to the House without delay, as an entirety, and without amendment or substitute, either favorably or unfavorably; and while the committee, under proper circumstances, would favor a portion of the resolution, yet, as there is much contained therein, which is decidedly objectionable, the committee found no other alternative left them, in deference to the wishes of the author, than to report upon the resolution as originally drawn, and, on account of the objectionable features thereof, and for other reasons, to report adversely.

Second—That before the resolution could be adopted by the House and Senate, and forwarded to our Senators and Representatives in Congress, the present Congress will have approached too near its close for any of the legislation therein contemplated to be enacted ; and as the members of the next Congress will be as fresh from the people as we ourselves are, and will understand the popular wants quite as well, having been elected upon a thorough canvass of the identical issues contained in the resolution, we do not feel that we would be justified by our own sense of duty, by our constituents or by the best interests of the State in recommending the passage of this resolution.

Seventh—It is objectionable, in that it demands an amendment to the Constitution of the United States, prohibiting the Government from ever issuing any bonds or other evidences of indebtedness without first obtaining authority therefor by a vote of the people ; which, in a sudden emergency, as in case of war, would be out of the question.

Eighth—It is objectionable, in that it demands an amendment to the Constitution of the United States, fixing the per capita of paper circulation at $50.00 for the entire population of the country—an inflation which would be ruinous to all business interests, and a policy, which it would be unwise to engraft upon our organic law, even if the volume of currency were not too great, in the fact, that the amount of money to be kept in circulation, if regulated at all, should be regulated according to the demands of trade, and not according to the number of the inhabitants in the country.

Ninth—It is objectionable, in that it is inconsistent within itself, for if the resumption act is repealed, the two and one-half billions of greenbacks would be irredeemable paper, and, therefore, there would be no necessity for either gold or silver coin, hence, why demand the unlimited coinage of silver, or any coinage at all ? Why not issue a sufficient further volume of the irredeemable paper to equal the amount of all the silver likely to be coined in the United States, and thereby render the coinage of silver unnecessary ?

Tenth—The resolution is objectionable as a whole ; and it is objectionable in many points, and for many reasons which the committee have not pointed out in this report ; therefore, the committee have recommended that it do not pass ; which was read.

House concurrent resolution No. 12, entitled Concurrent resolution memorializing Congress to take action in relation to national finances ; was taken up.

Mr. McDaniel moved that the resolutions be indefinitely postponed.

On motion of Mr. Arnold, the previous question was ordered.

The ayes and noes being demanded, the motion to indefinitely postpone prevailed by the following vote:

AYES—Messrs. Arnold, Ballew, Bashaw, Berryman, Bonham, Bowman, Brewer, Bryan, Campbell of Atchison, Campbell of St. Louis city, Carleton, Carroll, Chenoweth, Chitwood, Cock, Coleman, Collins, Cook, Cooper, Cowan of Holt, Cox, Craig, Crow, Dale, Dawson, Diercks, Dodson, Dougherty, Drum, Dryden, Ellis, Ewing, Farr, Finks, Freed, Gwynne, Hayes, Hale, Hall, Ham, Hammons, Haynes, Harrigan, Helm, Kendall, Kneisley, Lackland, Lesueur, Lockhart, Louthan, Lynn, Mabrey, Mackey, Mahn, Maynard, Miles, Moler, Morrison, Mudd of Lincoln, McCormick of Washington, McCormick of St. Louis city, McDaniel, McGarry, McIntyre, McKill, Organ, Patterson of Linn, Patterson of Schuyler, Pehle, Phelan, Pollock, Pollard, Powers, Price, Ragan, Rawlings, Riley, Saunders, Settles, Smith of Cedar, Smith of St. Louis city, Taylor, Tevis, Tiernan, Turner, Warren, Wells, Weygandt, Wiley, Windes, Wisby, Younger and Mr. Speaker—93.

Resolved, That it is the sense of this House that the words, "revision" and "digest," as used in the Constitution, means to arrange, to put in order the laws of a general nature, and that, therefore, it is unnecessary, a great waste of time, and an unwarrantable expenditure of money to introduce and caused to be printed and passed statutes and acts which are already laws. Many sections and chapters and articles, when there are no amendments or alterations sought, and therefore the respective committees to whom bills of this character are referred, to report substitutes for all bills when the whole chapter, or article, or any part thereof, not proposed to be amended, is incorporated in the bill, to eliminate from said bill all the parts to which there is no amendments; which was read, and, on motion, laid over until to-morrow.

Mr. Belch, the Speaker (Mr. Farr in the chair), rose to a privileged question. He read from the proceedings of the Greenback caucus, held last Saturday night, in which he was charged with unfair ruling in connection with the rejection of the "Knight resolutions." He said that he was accused of a violation of duty in not taking the ayes and noes on a motion to reconsider the vote ordering the previous question, when those resolutions were before the House. He greatly regretted to learn that anybody had taken offense at his ruling on that occasion. He referred particularly to the fourth resolution of Saturday night's caucus. The motion of the gentleman from St. Clair to reconsider, could have no reference except to the vote by which the previous question was ordered. It might not have been understood by the mover, but under plain parliamentary law it was the only motion of that nature which could be entertained. The motion to reconsider, as I have already stated, referred to the main question. It was clearly out of order to make such a motion, because the vote to indefinitely postpone had been commenced. It was a final execution of the order of the House. It was a consummation of the order for the previous question. Mr. Belch cited authorities in support of his position. He stated, in conclusion, that as Speaker of the House, he had carefully watched over the rights of the minority. He intended to always see that they had their full privileges, and in this he fairly represented the majority. It was neither his, nor their inclination, to take any advantage.

Mr. Bowman, from the Committee on Mines and Mining, submitted the following report :

MR. SPEAKER : On leave of the House, your Committee on Mines and Mining, visited and inspected the School of Mines and Metallurgy at Rolla, Phelps county, on the 5th and 6th days of this month.

In obedience to custom, and in order to discharge our duty, we beg leave to report as follows :

It is generally known that the School of Mines is a portion of the State University, and as such is entitled to the fostering care of the State ; but little, however, seems to be known of the great and absolute importance of this school to the material interests and welfare of the State, at the present and in the future.

To this view of the case your committee desire to call special attention.

The idea seems to prevail that this school is one where nothing is taught save the details of mining. This opinion is entirely erroneous, and it is our pleasure, as well as duty, to do what we can to correct it. While mining, in its details, is taught, it is but one of the many technical branches supplied by this institution. In brief, the school is one where our sons and daughters can procure the higher English branches, and to that add any or all the scientific acquirements, with a good practical experience in each of them.

Drawing, painting, physical geography, astronomy, surveying, civil engineering, mineralogy, metallurgy are supplied, and analytical chemistry, as applied to mining, is taught in the very best manner.

The teaching, in all the branches, is made eminently practical : the student is fitted for surveying by practice in the field, with all the proper appliances ; he is fitted for duty as mining engineer, by actual observation and study in the mines ; and in the laboratory is taught, by the use of crucible and reagents, to determine the exact value of the product mined, and the best way to reduce, separate and refine any and all useful and precious metals.

Institutions where young men can fit themselves thoroughly in important technical branches of study are rare and far between on this continent, and for this reason it is the more important that this school receive the support it so richly deserves. Your committee found good reason to honestly commend the corps of teachers now on duty in the school, and to ask for them the recognition, at the hands of the State, they so richly deserve. All are doing their duty conscientiously and well.

For the reason that appropriations exhaust at mid-winter, under the system of applying money as it is now done, your committee advise and recommend that sufficient money be appropriated by this General Assembly to carry the school through the next two and one-half years. By so doing, the winter term need not be interrupted by want of funds, as is now the case.

Your committee recommend that sixteen thousand nine hundred dollars be appropriated for salaries of teachers, and that two thousand and one hundred dollars be appropriated for a contingent expense fund, out of which certain needed repairs can be made to the building, and apparatus and appliances can be bought that are absolutely needed for the proper conduct of the school. All of which is respectfully submitted; which was read.

On motion of Mr. McDaniel, the House adjourned until to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock.

Mr. Taylor, from the Special Committee, appointed to investigate the affairs of the State Treasury, submitted the following report, together with the accompanying resolution:

Mr. SPEAKER: Your committee to whom was referred the special work of examining into the affairs, management and present condition of the State Treasury, beg leave to make the following report:

We do not undertake to go into any extended recital of the facts brought out in the testimony of the various witnesses called before us, deeming it best to append all the testimony, which is voluminous, to this report, and make it a part of the same. We visited the cities of Kansas, St. Joseph, St. Louis and Warrensburg, calling before us all witnesses who could be reached by the process of the committee, who were supposed to have any information on the matters sought to be touched upon in the investigation. We examined very carefully the books of the Mastin Bank, the Bank of St. Joseph, the National Bank of the State, First National Bank at Warrensburg and the National Exchange Bank of Jefferson City, these being the banks, and the only banks so far as we could learn, in which any funds of the State had been deposited, either directly or indirectly. In coming to the conclusion which we reach and hereinafter set out, your committee felt justified in taking the moral rather than the legal effect of the statements made by the various witnesses before them. Combinations between men made for unlawful purposes, if made at all, and especially among shrewd and careful persons, are generally most cautiously entered into, and protected from scrutiny as far as at all possible. We soon realized the fact after commencing our labors, that upon the most important matters sought to be investigated, we could not hope for any display of frankness upon the part of those most concerned; especially was this most noticeable in Col. Gates, and Col. James N. Burnes. In many of the most vital parts of these transactions, occurring but little more than two years since, and about which so much has been said and intimated, many of these gentlemen entrenched themselves behind the plea of lack of remembrance or positive knowledge, and to a very great degree prevented the committee from realizing that certainty in their work, so much desired by them and the good people of this State, we felt justified then, if from no other causes, in holding some of these gentlemen responsible for knowledge of transactions, information upon which even the most ordinary care in the conduct of their affairs must have been brought home to them. We have held them responsible for grave infractions of the well known statutes of the State, and violations of official duty, because we do not believe it to be either safe or proper to permit any public officer to set up as an excuse a lack of knowledge of occurrences, about which it is his plain and official duty to keep himself informed. The measure of official responsibility, we take it, is fixed by the character of the duties of the office, and if men undertake to perform public duties for which by nature they are wholly unfitted, and the public service and general welfare suffer in consequence, we do not believe that such officers should be permitted to plead either ignorance of the law, lack of knowledge of official duties or personal incompetency. Therefore we have thought it our duty to take the plain rule of right action in these matters, and to hold all persons upon whom such duties were cast, to the strict performance thereof. Having gone so far in explanation of the stand point from which we looked upon the subject matter referred to us, that the conclusions at which we have arrived might be fully understood, we here offer what we solemnly believe to be a full history, so far as it lay within our power to reach the same, of the present condition of the State Treasury, and the causes producing that condition.

The testimony elicits the fact that during the political campaign of 1876, Col. James N. Burnes, a stockholder in the bank of St. Joseph, took a most active part in securing the nomination of Elijah Gates, to the office of State Treasurer, and managed and controlled his interests in the Democratic State Convention. After Gates had been elected, James N. Burnes took upon himself the sole charge of making the bond required by law to be given, with the knowledge on his part that he would thereby obtain full and complete control of the State's deposits. He boldly stated to the committee: "I knew Col. Gates well enough to know if I were on his bond that he would deposit his money with any bank I was interested in." Thomas H. Mastin, having opposed the nomination of Col. Gates, immediately set to work to influence Gates and his political manager, Burnes, to permit parties interested in the Mastin Bank to make a portion of said bond, to the end that they might be allowed to continue in possession of a portion of the deposits of the State. At that time there was deposited of the State's funds in the Mastin Bank, under the administration of Mr. Mercer, $312,000, the withdrawal of which would have crippled the Mastin Bank; hence the solicitude on the part of the Mastins and others interested in that bank. The bond was executed with the following named persons as sureties: James N. Burnes, F. M. Cockrell, Barton Bates, J. H. Britton, N. P. Ogden, Smith Adams, John J. Mastin, M. J. Payne, Thomas H. Mastin, D. O. Smart, David H. Armstrong.

The above named parties were, to a more or less extent, interested in the several banks that were to get a portion of the moneys of the State, and, with the exception of Cockrell and Adams, had volunteered to go on the bond. Cockrell and Adams had been procured by Gates himself.

Burnes testified that there was an understanding at this time that Gates's bond having been made by parties in the three banks, namely: Bank of St. Joseph, Mastin Bank, and National Bank of the State, the deposits were to be divided between the three banks in equal proportions, and the farming out of the moneys of the State was understood to be in the control and under the management of James N. Burnes. The Bank of St. Joseph, under the arrangement, was selected nominally sole depository of the State's funds. It had a capital stock, full paid, of $100,000, and Col. Gates, in answer to an interrogatory why he selected the Bank of St. Joseph as the depository of the State's funds, made the following reply: "I selected the Bank of St. Joseph as the depository of the State's funds, simply because James N. Burnes was one of the delegates and took an active part in my nomination." He did not know the capital stock of the bank, nor did he inquire about it. Burnes having secured the absolute control of the money of the State, and having perfect confidence in his ability to retain the same, began, through the Bank of St. Joseph, to let it out to the above named banks, and collect interest through the Bank of St. Joseph as hereinafter explained. This arrangement continued until the time of the failure of the National Bank of the State of Missouri, which had a deposit, when its doors closed, of the State's money of about $500,000, for which the Bank of St. Joseph was directly liable to Gates when the State Bank closed. Alarmed at the heavy loss, Gates withdrew a large portion of his deposits from the Bank of St. Joseph and carried them in the Mastin Bank in the name of Elijah Gates, Treasurer, and continued to carry them in his name on the books of that bank until the time of its suspension. The testimony further shows the following facts as to the standing of the State finances: On January 8, 1877, Treasurer Gates received from his predecessor, $525,473.55. He began his connection with the Bank of St. Joseph about the same time by depositing in it a check on the Mastin Bank for $312,000, and on the National Bank of the State of Missouri for $190,000, both signed by Joseph W. Mercer, Treasurer. At the date of the suspension of the National Bank of the State of Missouri, June 19, 1877, the State money on deposit in the Bank of St. Joseph aggregated $1,357,958.88, which was apportioned by it among the following banks: National Bank of the State of Missouri, $501,462.88; Mastin Bank, $856,111.98; First National Bank of Warrensburg, $10,000; National Exchange Bank of Jefferson City, $10,000—leaving a balance in the Bank of St. Joseph of only $383.77, although it was solely responsible to the Treasurer for the whole sum. Alarmed at the failure of the National Bank of the State of Missouri, and fearing the reaction on the Bank of St. Joseph, the Treasurer ceased depositing in the latter bank, and had the funds on deposit to its credit in the Mastin Bank transferred to the credit of himself, as Treasurer, amounting to the above named sum of $856,111.98. The Mastin Bank had a paid up capital of $250,000. A short time after transferring this credit to his own account, the Treasurer procured from the Mastin Bank an indemnity bond in the sum of $1,000,000 as security for the deposits signed by John J Mastin, Thomas H. Mastin, Seth Ward, David O. Smart, Thomas Corrigan, John Campbell, M. J. Payne and James H. McGee, which bond the committee are of the opinion was at that time good indemnity for $500,000, but which subsequent developments have proven to be comparatively worthless. About this time, July 1, 1877, the Mastin Bank remitted to New York $450,000, for payment of the July interest. The Treasurer continued his deposits in the Mastin Bank until about August or September, 1877, when he gave instructions to the bank to forward $490,000 more to New York in payment of maturing bonds, and was notified that it was impossible for the bank to do so.

At this juncture, notwithstanding the failure of the National Bank of the State of Missouri, the bank of St. Joseph still continued doing business, and the Treasurer, knowing the Mastin Bank to be in an unsound condition, recommenced depositing the State funds in the Bank of St. Joseph.

From this time to the latter portion of January, the Treasurer was making constant efforts to withdraw his money from the Mastin Bank, but his drafts were almost invariably sent back to him unpaid.

January 27, 1878, it became evident to the Mastins and Gates that the First National Bank of Kansas City could not continue its existence more than a day or two longer, and that its dissolution would cause a panic that would precipitate the failure of the already crippled Mastin Bank, unless the latter could receive assistance.

A meeting was arranged on the 28th of January, 1878, between the two Mastins, C. F. Burnes and James N. Burnes, at the St. James Hotel in Kansas City. Gates was in Washington at the time the Burnes' were called to Kansas City, but was telegraphed to come on and meet them, which he did. At this time Treasurer Gates had on deposit in the Bank of St. Joseph $262,000, and there was due to the Bank of St. Joseph from the broken National Bank of the State of Missouri, something in excess of $375,000, having been reduced to this amount by payment of dividends. James N. Burnes had, for a length of time, been using every endeavor to induce the Mastins to assume half of the loss in the National Bank failure. Seeing the straits of their necessities, he took advantage of the opportunity, and made the following proposition: That if they would assume one-half of the loss occasioned by the failure of the National Bank of the State of Missouri, that he would induce Gates to advance them one-half of what moneys the Bank of St. Joseph then had to his credit. Under all the circumstances, the Mastins could do nothing more than accept. The arrangement was consummated between them and the two Burnes' in the hotel at 10:30 o'clock at night, and Elijah Gates signed, as Treasurer, under the instructions of James N. Burnes, and without inquiry, two checks, both drawn on the Bank of St. Joseph; one for $131,000, being half of the money then to his credit in the Bank of St. Joseph, and another for $187,500, being an estimated one-half of the loss occasioned by the failure of the National Bank of the State of Missouri. This method having been selected for the transfer from the Bank of St. Joseph to the Mastin Bank of that asset, these two checks were placed to his credit on the books of the Mastin Bank, and debited to him on the books of the Bank of St. Joseph.

When the checks were signed, they were at once passed to Thomas H. Mastin, endorsed by him as assistant cashier and turned over to James N. Burnes, taking from Burnes an assignment of one-half of the claim of the Bank of St. Joseph against the National Bank of the State of Missouri. The arrangement was perfected just in time to have Thomas H. Mastin catch the regular train for St. Joseph at 11 o'clock. He telegraphed on ahead to have a special train in waiting, which brought him back to Kansas City at 8 o'clock the next morning, before banking hours, with $50,000 in cash and $81,000 in drafts on St. Louis, it being understood between all the parties that the bank could not open and run the next day without this assistance. It was also understood that no money was to pass on the check for $187,500, but that it represented the transfer of the asset from the one bank to the other.

For the advance of $131,000 to tide the bank over its financial difficulty, the Treasurer accepted from the bank $350,000 of Kansas City water works, bonds as a collateral to secure this and any subsequent deposits placed to his credit. The First National Bank suspended, as expected, on January 29, 1878, and produced a panic, resulting, as anticipated, in a run on the Mastin Bank. The bank, however, continued in existence, and the only moneys received by it from the Treasurer were small sums deposited by the collector of Jackson county and placed to the credit of Gates, and were checked out by the Treasurer, with as much more as he was permitted to do by the bank until August 2, 1878, when it suspended with a liability to the Treasurer, according to his books, of $506,187.80, but according to the bank books only $279,732.20—a difference of $226,455.60. This difference, we explain as follows: The Mastin Bank sent among other notes to the bank of St. Joseph on May 7, 1878, on which the latter bank could realize money for Treasurer Gates' four notes, all dated May 6, 1878, for $10,000 each, all signed by the Kansas City White Lead and Linseed Oil Company, and endorsed by W. N. Marsh and F. C. Marsh, payable four months' after date, and a copy of the following letter explains the result:

ST. JOSEPH, JUNE 6, 1878.

John J. Mastin, Cashier, Kansas City, Mo.,

DEAR SIR—As desired, the notes of W. N. Marsh and others are discounted to-day. Amount of discount, at ten per cent. is $1,044.40. You will therefore charge $38,955.60 to the State of Missouri, as per our agreement.

Very Truly Yours,

For Treasurer.

C. F. BURNES.

The State Treasurer denies all knowledge of the transaction, and repudiates it. The Bank of St. Joseph, however, was, so to speak, the clearing house for the Treasurer, and its President had instructed the Mastin Bank to debit the State of Missouri with the proceeds of his notes, as per his own letter. These notes the Treasurer has received, and they are now filed as exhibits in a suit instituted in Kansas City against the endorsers and the company. The balance due is $187,500, for which it is claimed that the Mastin Bank is liable. It is admitted by the cashier that the credit to Gates on the books of the bank was a bona fide transaction, and was merely the means of changing from the Bank of St. Joseph to the Mastin Bank, one-half of the loss in the National Bank of the State of Missouri, and the credit given to Gates in the Mastin Bank was in lieu of that to which he was entitled on the books of the Bank of St. Joseph. As a further evidence of the fact that both of these banks understood the transaction alike, the dividend was paid out of the assets of the National Bank of the State of Missouri, and as the asset had been proved up in the name of the Bank of St. Joseph, the whole of the dividend was paid to that bank, and that portion of it to which the $187,500 transferred to the Mastin Bank was entitled, was forwarded to the Mastin Bank and placed to the credit of John J. Mastin, Trustee, as shown by the following correspondence:

BANK OF ST. JOSEPH, }
ST. JOSEPH, MO., MARCH 11, 1878. }

John J. Mastin, Cashier, Kansas City, Mo.,

DEAR SIR—We have notification from St. Louis to-day of payment of a third dividend amounting to ten per cent. to creditors of National Bank of the State of Missouri, for which we send you to-day $25,000 currency by the United States Express Company, as we suppose you prefer having the currency for this. Please acknowledge receipt for same.

Your friend, truly,

C. F. BURNES, President.

Which letter of advice was answered as follows:

MASTIN BANK,
KANSAS CITY, Mo., MARCH 13, 1878. }

C. F. Burnes, President.

DEAR SIR—Yours of the 11th, in regard to dividend, received, and also the currency. We are making large shipments of currency to St. Louis almost every day now, and would have preferred exchange.

Yours, &c,

JOHN J. MASTIN, Cashier.

The aggregate of these two amounts makes up the difference between what is claimed by the Treasurer from his books, and what is claimed by the Mastin Bank from its books.

On October 26, 1878, the Treasurer sold the $350,000 water works bonds, and realized $220,000, which reduced the claim against the Mastin Bank to that extent. As security for the balance the Treasurer holds $98,175 in past due coupons of the National Water Works Company, the right to which is disputed, and the $1,000,000 bond hereinbefore referred to.

The assignee of the Mastin Bank will probably pay out of the assets of that bank at least 40 per cent., and is hopeful of a still larger dividend.

In settling with the Bank of St. Joseph, a balance was due of $49,000 to the Treasurer, and there being no cash on hand to meet this, he accepted forty-nine $1,000 Clinton county bonds.

In the prosecution of an attachment suit against the Mastin Bank, the Treasurer drew $5,000 in cash from the State funds and deposited it with William Chrisman, of Independence, and J. W. Reid, of Kansas City, to indemnify them in case of loss as sureties on his attachment bond. The National Bank of the State of Missouri owes the State, direct, $3,045.25, so that to sum up the condition of the State Treasury on February 5, 1879, we found it to be as follows:

In the Bank of Commerce, St. Louis, $791,253.48, for the security of which the Treasurer holds $750,000 worth of State and United States bonds.

The bank is allowed a margin of $50,000 above the amount of bonds deposited by it, whenever they have as much as $50,000 more than the amount of bonds deposited as security, the Treasurer is empowered to call upon them for the deposit of additional bonds:

In the Mastin Bank.....	$286,187 80
Clinton county bonds.....	49,000 00
Deposited with Chrisman & Reed.....	5,000 00
In the vault, wolf scalp certificates, etc.....	48,482 50
In National Bank of the State of Missouri.....	3,045 25

$1,182,969 03

Out of the above item of $286,187.80, four disputed Kansas City White Lead and Linseed Oil Company notes are in suit, as hereinbefore set out, and are contested upon various grounds, also the claim for an amount of $187,500 is contested before the assignee and set for hearing March 2, 1879. Whether either or both of these amounts are valid claims against the parties prosecuted for their collection, are questions upon which your committee does not feel authorized to express an opinion.

From all the information the committee could obtain, they are satisfied that there is strong reason to believe that the State will suffer no loss, on account of the failure of these various banks in which the State money is tied up.

The ultimate recovery of by far the larger amount of it seems certain, and it is highly probable, that, what with the assets of the various banks and the few solvent persons on the different bonds, the whole sum can be realized.

THE PAYMENT OF INTEREST.

We felt justified, in order to fix the custom of interest payments to go beyond the date of Gates' entry upon the office, and we found that the payment of a bonus for the use of the State money began with the administration of Bishop, in 1861, and has continued regularly to a greater or less degree ever since.

Prior to Mercer's induction to office, the payments as made, and to whom made, do not appear on the face of the books by any entry which enables the committee to designate them.

They passed into the general entry of profit and loss account of the different banks, and could not be traced. When Mercer took the office, the interest payments by both the National Bank of the State and the Mastin Bank were made to John T. Crisp. After Gates took possession of the office, all interest paid was either to the Bank of St. Joseph or Burnes & Co. of Atchison, Kansas, for, as it was claimed, the sole use of James N. Burnes. Passing back to the inception of these matters, it would seem that it was the general understanding among bankers and politicians, that in putting up a particular person for the office of Treasurer, securing his nomination and making his bond, his backers were entitled to control the funds, but were expected to pay interest upon them.

At this time the Mastin Bank and the National Bank had between them about $525,000 of the State money deposited with them by Mr. Mercer, and upon which they were paying interest at the rate of four and a half to Crisp. After Gates' nomination, and when it became evident that Burnes would control these matters, the Mastins employed

Waller Young to represent them in their efforts to get on Gates' bond, and retain a portion of the State's deposit. The committee conclude that the pressing cause for this was the fact that at that time they had over $300,000 of the State's money that they could not have then paid, nor did they ever pay the amount except by passing it to Gates' general credit on their books. The parties met in St. Joseph, and the new Constitution requiring that the Treasurer should advertise for bids for the use of the State's money, and all these parties claiming to believe this constitutional provision to be self operative, it seems they had several conferences with the Treasurer and with Burnes, who was his manager in all these matters. Finally, Gates and Burnes selected the Mastins, and the parties representing the National Bank of the State to make his bond, with the understanding that the money should be divided as hereinbefore set forth, and this plan having been agreed upon, the bond was executed, and as soon as Gates went into office, the money was forwarded to the Bank of St. Joseph, then sent out to the different banks as before shown. It was here agreed that the three banks should pay six per cent. interest upon the daily balances on the State money in the different banks. These payments were to be credited directly to the Bank of St. Joseph upon the monthly balances, and to simplify matters, all State money was to be carried on the books of the different banks to the credit of the account of the Bank of St. Joseph, "special account."

The books of the Mastin Bank and First National Bank at Warrensburg are plain as to the interest payments made by them, the entries being as "interest on the State funds." In the Bank of St. Joseph no entries could be found, and in the National Bank of the State, entries only for the months of May and June, 1877. These entries were not made until the banks went into the hands of a receiver, and bore date November 17, 1877.

Outside the general agreement, there was an understanding between the Mastin Bank and Bank of St. Joseph, that if the latter bank should send to the former a portion of its one-third of the money, that two per cent. extra should be allowed for the use of such excess, which amount should go directly to the Bank of St. Joseph, and the balance of the interest paid, it is claimed, went directly to James N. Burnes personally, and was by him appropriated to his own use. The reasons assigned for this most singular claim, are not at all satisfactory to the committee. The right to the interest set up by Burnes was based upon the assertion that he had agreed to use his financial credit to protect the different banks in the use of their portion of the funds for State purposes, by supplying the Bank of St. Joseph with funds to meet all of the demands of the Treasurer. This pretext did not satisfy the committee, for the reason that the Bank of St. Joseph, in which he was a stockholder, and which was responsible for the whole of the deposits, was also paying this interest. In addition to this, after the failure of the Bank in St. Louis, the Mastin Bank, which had most of the money during the remainder of the period, until its suspension, and was paying the heaviest portion of this interest, carried the money directly in the name of Gates, rendered statements monthly of the balances to Gates only, and Burnes claimed that in order to get the statements showing the monthly balances to the credit of Gates in the Mastin Bank, that he was compelled to come to Jefferson City and examine the books of the Treasurer, which he did, claiming that the Treasurer did not know any more about what his purpose was than what he might be led to suspect. As the money was in Gates' name directly, and subject to his drafts, there was no pretense, and none could be made, that Burnes was protecting the Mastin Bank against the drafts of Gates, and, therefore, the reason assigned by him why he received the interest was in nowise applicable to the state of affairs under which the interest was being received. Whether Gates participated in these interest receipts, your committee could not learn. Both Gates and Burnes deny in the most emphatic terms that he did, but just as certainly, on the the other hand, did these banks and their various officers so understand, and they claim to have supposed that this was but an indirect method of paying the money to Gates to secure the continuance of the deposits and as a bonus for their use. As your committee have no testimony going to show the participation of Gates, they do not feel justified in raising the fact to life, out of the merely suspicious circumstances surrounding the transactions. They must, therefore, leave unanswered this question :

“ Why should James N. Burnes, whose money this was not, and for the prompt forthcoming of which he was but indirectly responsible, and over which he had no legal control, be the recipient of the large sums of money paid for the use of it, and that too from those very men, who were, like himself, bound on Gates' bond, and, according to his own statements, equally entitled with himself to participate in the management and control of the funds? That Gates must have known that the interest was being paid, the conclusion is irresistible. These bankers began immediately after his nomination, and continued to the time of his entry upon the duties of his office, to make an unseemly scramble for this money. That they did not desire the responsibility of possessing it merely for the name, no sane person can for one moment suppose. That it was valuable, Gates well knew, for he had canvassed the question of advertising for bids for the payment of a bonus for its use, under the terms of the constitution, and the fight these men were making was to get on the bond, and be inside the pool, and to agree upon uniform bids which would keep it in their hands. That interest had been paid on these moneys, was an acknowledged fact, known and discussed in loud whispers in the politics of the whole State. It was known to the officers and employes of four banks, and no effort was made to conceal the fact. It was discussed by Gates' friends, and measured as an off-set to the loss in St. Louis as early as June, 1877. That these bankers supposed he knew it, is certain; John J. Mastin claiming to have received instructions from Gates as to the manner of making the payment. The interest was paid by the Mastin bank up to the time of its failure, and by the bank of St. Joseph up to October, 1878, yet, during all these months the State was being defrauded out of the proceeds of this fund which the Treasurer claimed at one time to expect to get for her without an effort upon his part, to save the large profits upon these funds to the people of this State, to whom they most justly belonged.

Unfortunately for the State and for the Treasurer it was determined that the provision of the Constitution was not self-operative, and by active lobbying the banks that had already the money of the Treasurer, succeeded in defeating the treasury bill introduced into the House in the session of the Twenty-ninth General Assembly, thereby leaving the matter in exactly the same shape in which it had been standing during previous years. These banks then went on using the money and paying the interest upon it as hereinbefore shown. It is due Col. Gates to say that he denies all knowledge of those interest payments, but in the light of all the attendant circumstances your committee are forced to the conclusion that this denial can only be accounted for upon the theory that he willfully avoided that information upon these matters which is called legal certainty, but we hold him to that suspicion, that degree of vigilance upon that suspicion, which should have been his as a public officer in protecting trust funds, which raises itself to a moral certainty that a bonus was being paid for the use of the money, and we conclude that Elijah Gates knew, if he did share in it, that interest was being paid upon the funds of the State. The following amounts we found to have been paid, and in view of the fact that only the payments by the Mastin bank and bank at Warrensburg are certain, we are forced to estimate in part that paid by the bank in St. Louis and entirely that paid by the bank in St. Joseph. We have taken the Treasurer's balances and given the whole amounts and the interest spread thereon, and dividing it to the several banks, are satisfied that the estimate is reasonable.

Mastin bank.....	$54,391 00
Bank of St. Joseph.....	25,000 00
National Bank of the State.....	11,214 15
First National Bank at Warrensburg.....	633 60

Total.....$91,238 75

Of course we do not desire to be understood as making these items specific as to any but the two banks named, but we felt safe in fixing the total as above. The National Exchange bank at Jefferson City paid no interest so far as we could learn.

MANAGEMENT OF THE OFFICE.

James N. Burnes was practically State Treasurer, while Gates took the oath, was commissioned and inducted into office; the real manager, the master hand and overruling spirit was James N. Burnes. That Elijah Gates was wholly unfitted to perform the duties of this office, and should not have been placed in it, perhaps even his best friends will not deny. He was doubtless chosen from his obscurity because of the fact that his lack of information about that which he was taking upon himself best fitted him for the uses of the designing men who singled him out and were instrumental in raising him to the office. The laws of this State (Wagner's Statutes, page 1340, sections 4, 8 and 49, page 487, section 17, page 459, sections 39 and 41, page 460, sections 15 and 19) Const. 1875, art. 10, sec. 15 and 19, define the scope of the duties of such an officer, and hedge his office about with the most stringent penal enactments. Section 42 contains the following language: "No such officer, agent, or servant, shall loan out, with or without interest, any money or valuable security received by him." The courts have repeatedly decided that a deposit of money with any person or institution is a loan within the meaning of this section. 1st page Chancery Reports, 249; 18th Grattan, Va., 511; 15th New York, 255; 2d Wallace U. S., 252; 1st Grey, 382. In short, the powers and duties of such an office stood most explicitly and fully defined, yet in direct and open violation of all those provisions, Gates took from the Warrensburg bank two certificates of deposit aggregating $15,000, which money he left lying in that bank for six months. He kept a running account with that bank for a long period of time, his deposits aggregating oftentimes $40,000. He deposited in the National Exchange bank of Jefferson City, and kept there for nearly a year, running deposits, often reaching from thirty-five to forty thousand dollars, violating the law in making the deposit and endangering the loss of the money by not taking an indemnity for its safety. When he brought the suit by attachment in Kansas City, he took $5,000 of the State's money and used it to indemnify parties who went on his private, individual attachment bond, in a suit instituted for the collection of what was his personal debt. He deposited nearly one and one-half millions of the money of the people in a bank, the paid up capital stock of which was only $100,000, without one word of inquiry as to its solvency, taking no bond of indemnity for a considerable period of time after the deposit was made. He stood by and saw that bank parcel out the money of the State to such concerns as it deemed best, without asking as to the solvency or responsibility of such banks, one of them the National Bank of the State of Missouri, with its capital stock only worth from 50 to 60 cents on the dollar, and last and worst, when he knew that the Mastin bank had for months been on the very verge of suspension, he is sent for, and in order that it may keep open its doors, and his friend Burnes may be relieved of a heavy loss, he loans that bank in the very teeth of the law and the facts, $131,000, and transfers from the Bank of St. Joseph $187,500 of an asset which was beyond all doubt safer there than in the hands into which he was flinging it. He admits that when he was doing this, when he was risking with a bank which he knew could not open the next day without assistance, $318,500 of the peoples' money, more than that bank already had; that he never made an inquiry; that he did not know more than that Burnes wrote the check, asked him to sign it, and without question and without knowledge he did so. Then with pain and mortification your committee has gone step by step through this mass of humiliating transactions, and while they feel that Col. Gates has followed rather than led in the various infractions of the law and violations of official duty which have brought such embarrassing results to the State and her people, they feel it their bounden duty, as your committee under their obligation as representatives of the people, having in charge their interests, to hold Col. Gates responsible to the people for grave official misconduct within the meaning of the laws of the State, and to impeach him before the House and before the people of the State, of high crimes and misdemeanors in office, to the end that due punishment may be meted to him and the violated laws be vindicated, your committee beg leave to offer the following resolution as a part of this report, and beg that the report be adopted and the resolution do pass:

Resolved, That Elijah Gates, Treasurer of the State of Missouri, be and he is hereby impeached for high crimes and misdemeanors in office, and that to this end the House elect five managers, whose duty it shall be, by and with the assistance of the Attorney-General of the State of Missouri, to draw up and present articles of impeachment against said Elijah Gates, and present them to this House for its adoption.

M. T. TAYLOR, Chairman.
F. P. WILEY,
T. H. TIERNAN,
WM. L. BROWN,
F. W. MOTT.

Which was read.

I fully endorse and concur in the testimony and facts elicited in the investigation of the committee, but dissent from making any recommendation as to what action should be taken by the Legislature in the premises, for the reason that the resolution creating this committee made it their duty to report only the facts and evidence on the subject, and did not call for any recommendations.

JOHN SAUNDERS.

Which was read. .

Mr. McDaniel moved that 250 copies of the report and resolution be printed; which was agreed to.

The question recurring on the adoption of the report, it was adopted.

Pending discussion on the resolution,

On motion of Mr. Davis, the House adjourned until to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock.

THIRTY-NINTH DAY—WEDNESDAY, February 26, 1879.

MORNING SESSION.

House met pursuant to adjournment.

Speaker Belch in the chair.

Prayer by Elder E. P. Haley.

The journal of yesterday was being read, when,

On motion of Mr. McGarry, the further reading was dispensed with.

Mr. Burford offered the following resolution :

Resolved, That the Superintendent of Public Schools furnish to this House a list of students attending each of the Normal Schools of this State, including each department, namely, school of practice, preparatory department and normal proper, with the age of each student, and inform this House if there is in each or any of the Normal Schools of this State a preparatory department for the education of children who should attend the district schools, and if the teachers of said department are paid with State funds, and inform this House if students cannot teach one month in this school of practice and be released from any farther teaching in this State, and also inform this House the number of students from other States in each of said schools, and if said students pay the same tuition as Missouri students; which was read.

Mr. Cloud moved to lay the resolution on the table; which was not agreed to.

Mr. Bonham offered the following amendment:

Amend as follows: "School Superintendent shall furnish the number of all pupils under the age of fourteen years now attending said schools, according to the returns in his office; which was read and not agreed to.

The question recurring on the adoption of the resolution, it was adopted.

Mr. Arnold offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That in the judgment of this House, a constitutional amendment ought to be submitted to the qualified voters of this State, prohibiting absolutely the manufacture of intoxicating liquors therein, or the importation or sale of the same, except for medical, chemical or sacramental purposes; and to that end the Committee on Constitutional Amendments are requested to report to this House, at as early a day as practicable, a concurrent resolution to that effect; which was read, and, on motion, postponed until 10 o'clock, Tuesday, March 4th.

Mr. Davis presented the following communication from Elijah Gates, State Treasurer:

To the General Assembly of the State of Missouri:

I am advised by my counsel that under proper proceedings, to be instituted in the name of the State, the full amount of two hundred and eighty-six thousand dollars of the State money, which I have not now in my possession as State Treasurer, by reason of the failure of certain banks in which said money was deposited, can be recovered from said banks.

I am further advised that in order to properly institute such proceedings, it will be necessary for the General Assembly to authorize the Attorney-General to use the name of the State for that purpose.

Sincerely anxious to recover said sum, and to allay the anxiety existing in regard thereto, I respectfully ask that the Attorney-General be authorized to institute such action, in the name of the State of Missouri, as he may, after consultation with my counsel, deem proper and necessary for the purpose of recovering the deficiency aforesaid, and in order that no question may arise hereafter as to the release of myself or bondsmen, by reason of such action on the part of the General Assembly, I propose as a condition precedent to the institution of any such proceedings by the Attorney-General in the name of the State, as before set forth, the State shall be fully secured against any loss in any event, by the execution to the State of the proper conveyance by myself and bondsmen, of mortgages or deeds of trust giving to the State a first lien upon real estate aggregating, in the present market value, the amount of two hundred and eighty-six thousand dollars.

The title to said real estate shall be unquestioned, and its market value shall be ascertained by appraisement, to be made in such manner as the General Assembly may determine." An indemnifying bond, with satisfactory security, shall also be first executed by myself and bondsmen, securing the State against the payment of any costs or expenses growing out of any suit instituted in its name as aforesaid.

This proposition is made with no idea or purpose of shielding myself from censure, or from any criminal proceedings of any kind, but in good faith, and for the purpose of preventing loss to the State by reason of events which have caused wide-spread and legitimate anxiety.

Respectfully,

E. GATES,

State Treasurer.

Which was read, and, on motion, referred to the Committee on Judiciary.

Mr. Davis introduced bill No. 438, entitled An act authorizing the Attorney-General to institute proceedings for the recovery of certain moneys; which was read the first time and laid over.

Mr. Younger offered the following resolution:

WHEREAS, The sending of convicts through the State and bringing them in contact and opposition to honorable laborers has met with opposition in all the counties of this State, except Pettis, therefore be it

Resolved, That the Warden of the penitentiary be authorized and directed to contract with the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company for the employment of five hundred convicts, to be worked in the machine shops, and at and about the work of said railroad in and around Sedalia, at a price and sum not less than twenty-five cents a day, to open their eyes on this subject; which was read and referred to the Committee on Penitentiary.

Mr. Riley, from the Committee on Lunatic Asylums, submitted the following report:

MR. SPEAKER: Your Committee on Lunatic Asylums, beg leave to report that they have just returned from a visit to State Insane Asylum No. 1, located at Fulton. It is the opinion of the committee that the asylum is well conducted. They found it kept clean, well heated and ventilated; they think that it has been conducted as economically as could be under like circumstances.

On account of the destruction of Asylum No. 2, at St. Joseph, the asylum at Fulton is rapidly filling up. On Nov. 25, 1878, there were 410 inmates; at the present time there are 423, with 13 applications. The capacity of the institution is 450. There are now in the State over 1300 insane unprovided for; this fact, taken in connection with the destruction of Asylum No. 2, shows conclusively that there will be a very large number to be cared for at Fulton at no distant day.

For the above reason, the committee would urge upon the Legislature the importance of making a liberal appropriation for the above-named institution; which was read.

Mr. McCormick of St. Louis city, from the Committee on Blind Asylum, submitted the following report:

MR. SPEAKER: The Committee of the House, to whom was committed the investigation of the condition of the Missouri Institution for the Education of the Blind, desire to state that, in pursuance of their responsibility as such committee, they visited said institution, and, through you to the members of the 30th General Assembly, ask leave to submit the following report:

Introductory thereto, the committee desire to acknowledge their appreciation of the courteous assistance rendered them by the officers of the institution, and especially by the President of its Board of Trustees, by whose aid the investigation was greatly facilitated, and the wants and necessities of the institution fully explained.

As it is not generally understood, it may be proper to state, that the said institution is a school and a charity alike.

As an eleemosynary institution, it is not, as its popular name would indicate, an asylum or refuge for the indigent and afflicted, which they enter at their option, to be maintained at the public expense during their pleasure, but it is a charitable school, where a curriculum is prescribed, and a course of study and instruction followed for a given period, by which time it is expected that any of its inmates can be rendered self-sustaining and independent.

It is a monument at once to the humane sentiment of the age and to an enlightened policy of State.

The various departments of the institution were visited and inspected.

THE LITERARY DEPARTMENT.

In the school rooms it was surprising to witness the aptitude of the pupils, and their proficiency in the different branches of study, such as grammar, arithmetic, algebra, history, composition, etc. The pupils have organized a debating society; the young men declaim and debate, while the young ladies read or recite their essays. Some of these productions—poetical and prose—were recited, and were highly creditable.

MUSICAL DEPARTMENT.

In the musical department there was found even more striking development and marked proficiency. Undoubtedly, many of the graduates of this charity will find, on entering life, slight difficulty in maintaining themselves through the opportunities there furnished them.

THE MECHANICAL DEPARTMENTS.

An investigation herein indicated that the object of the tutors was to make the pupils independent in after life, though they may fail to sustain themselves in such vocations as their tastes may lead them. Their handiwork is as perfect and as elegant as though they possessed their senses intact, and any pupil of reasonable intelligence can quit the institution with a sense of independence. In this department they are taught to keep their accounts, and so familiarized do they become with it, that it is rare that they can be imposed upon.

GOVERNMENT OF THE INSTITUTION.

The discipline and morale of the institution is excellent. The pupils retire between 9 and 10 P. M., and rise at 5 A. M. Four hours of each day is devoted to school exercises and recitations; two hours to the work-shops, and the remaining time to study, or exercise or innocent sports. The children are controlled, but no harsh punishments are inflicted, and between teachers and pupils there appears to exist accord and sympathetic love.

The pupils were critically questioned; they expressed themselves as contented and happy, and resent any suggestion that their teachers are unkind. Their condition, considering the affliction under which they exist, is one, in general terms, which redounds to the humanitarian legislation of our State.

ITS SANITARY CONDITION.

The health of the institution was found to be unexceptionable. This, in great measure, is attributable to the wholesome diet and regimen which is followed, and especially to the watchful care of Dr. Pollak, one of its trustees, who, without compensation, is ever at the bedside of the sufferer, and makes daily visits to the institution in a professional capacity.

The building was critically inspected, and found in general bad condition; the floors especially, and the ceilings and wall-paper need attention. The furniture needs renovation—in fact, much of it is useless.

OFFICERS AND TEACHERS OF INSTITUTION.

These are all specially selected and qualified in the estimation of the Board of Trustees. The corps of teachers are efficient and unobjectionable, Dr. Sibley, the principal, being recognized as among the foremost men in such institutions, both in this country and in Europe.

The superintendent exercises a supervising control, and his qualities of head and heart commend him; while as to integrity (so much needed in such a place), he enjoys the entire confidence and respect of every one. The matron, Mrs. Standish, is considered by the Board as an invaluable person to the institution. A lady of refinement and gentle qualities, it is to her that the high social and moral culture of the pupils is attributable.

As to any reduction of the compensation of the officers or teachers of this asylum, the voice of the Board of Trustees and the voice of your entire committee is uttered in protest.

ITS FINANCIAL CONDITION.

The President of the Board of Trustees furnished the following statement of the per capita cost of maintaining a pupil at this as compared to the cost of other institutions for the blind:

Annual per capita cost of a pupil, New York.....	$635 38
“ “ “ “ Indiana.....	270 90
“ “ “ “ Missouri.....	235 00

Examination revealed that every dollar appropriated to the use of the asylum had been legitimately applied, and only disbursed upon the approval of the Board of Trustees, each check being first countersigned by the president thereof.

The books, accounts and vouchers were found correct, and as to its general financial management, your committee have no suggestion to offer, and desire to express themselves as fully satisfied therewith. All of which is respectfully submitted; which was read.

The hour of recess having expired, the House was called to order by the Speaker.

The Speaker laid before the House the following communication from the Attorney-General:

OFFICE OF ATTORNEY-GENERAL,
CITY OF JEFFERSON, February 28, 1879. }

To the HON. J. ED. BELCH, Speaker of the House of Representatives:

DEAR SIR:—I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of a duly certified copy of a resolution adopted by the House, to-wit:

“WHEREAS, By act of Congress, approved July 4, 1866, there was donated to the State of Missouri, to aid in the construction and extension of the Iron Mountain Railroad from Pilot Knob to a point on the southern boundary of the State, every alternate section of land designated by odd numbers within ten miles of either side of said road, and if said lands, or any part thereof, had been disposed by the United States, the deficit was supplied by other lands; that said railroad has been so extended and said lands have been withdrawn from market by the United States; and,

WHEREAS, It appears that said lands, so donated to the State of Missouri by the United States, cannot be bought, and are lying undisposed of ; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Attorney-General be and he is hereby requested to report to this House, the condition of the title to said lands, and all such other facts concerning the same of which he may be, or can be, possessed."

I will state in response thereto, that the first section of the act of Congress, approved July 4, 1866 (U. S. Stat. at Large, page 83,) provides that there is thereby granted to the State of Missouri for the purpose of aiding in the construction and extension of the Iron Mountain Railroad, from its terminus at Pilot Knob to a point on the southern boundary line of the said State of Missouri, every alternate section of land designated by odd numbers, for ten sections in width on each side of said railroad, etc., upon certain conditions mentioned in other sections of said act.

Among these were the following, to-wit:

I. That said railroad was required to be constructed within five years from the first day of July, 1866.

II. That the said lands so granted to the State of Missouri should be disposed of for the purposes mentioned in the first section of said act only, in the following manner, viz:

Whenever the Governor of the said State should certify to the Secretary of the Interior that any section of ten consecutive miles of said railroad was completed, etc., and the said Secretary of the Interior should be satisfied that said State had complied in good faith with the said requirement, the said Secretary of the Interior should issue to the State patents for the said lands, and so on, from time to time, until said railroad should be completed.

III. That should said State fail to complete the said railroad within the time prescribed by said act of Congress, the lands so undisposed of should revert to the United States.

It was further provided in said act of Congress, that as soon as the Governor of said State should file, or cause to be filed with the Secretary of the Interior, maps designating the route of said railroad, then it should be the duty of the Secretary of the Interior to withdraw from market the lands embraced within the provisions of said act.

From the statement of these provisions of the act of Congress, it will be observed that said grant of lands to the State was conditional, and not absolute ; that the legal title could not emanate thereunder until the conditions therein imposed were performed by the State and the said railroad ; that upon the filing with the Secretary of the Interior of a map designating the route of said railroad, the lands mentioned were to be withdrawn from market.

I have been informed that the said map of the route of said railroad was filed with the Secretary of the Interior and that said lands were withdrawn from market, but that the said railroad was actually constructed and extended on a widely different route from that designated in said map, and that the Governor of the State has never made and can not make the certificates to the Secretary of the Interior, that said railroad, or any part thereof, has been constructed on the route indicated in said map, and consequently, no patent to the State has, or can be, issued for said lands.

I am further informed that said railroad on the said line designated in said map, has never been constructed as required by said act of Congress, or at all.

It would seem that the Congress of the United States, by the provisions of said act, empowered the Secretary of the Interior to patent said lands to the State of Missouri, upon the compliance by the said railroad company and the State of Missouri with the said conditions imposed by said act.

As the conditions precedent of said act of Congress have not been complied with, the legal title to said lands has not vested in the State of Missouri, and therefore remains in the United States.

It is my opinion further, that under the provisions of the act of the General Assembly of this State, approved March 13, 1868, (Acts of 1868, page 65,) the legal title to said lands did not pass to said railroad company.

I have the honor to be,

Very respectfully,

J. L. SMITH, Attorney-General.

Which was read.

On motion of Mr. Davis, the House went into Committee of the Whole for the further consideration of Senate bill No. 172.

Mr. Arnold in the chair.

On motion, the Committee of the Whole rose.

The Speaker took the chair and called the House to order.

Mr. Wells introduced bill No. 450, entitled An act to appropriate money to rebuild Lunatic Asylum No. 2, at St. Joseph, and to appoint a board of commissioners to contract for the erection of said building, and the employment of convict labor therefor; which was read the first time and laid over.

Mr. Hall introduced bill No. 451, entitled An act to establish a bureau of labor statistics; which was read the first time and laid over, and ordered printed for information.

Mr. Dawson offered the following resolution :

Resolved, That the Ways and Means Committee be and are hereby instructed to ascertain what State bonds are now redeemable, and that they prepare and introduce a bill funding bonds so redeemable, at a lower rate of interest than six per cent; which was read and adopted.

Mr. Bowman introduced bill No. 452, entitled An act to amend sections 7 and 8 of article 1 of an act entitled an act for the government of cities of the fourth class, approved May 15, 1877; which was read the first time and laid over.

Mr. Mott arose to a question of privilege, and stated that evidently the House misconstrued his motives and intentions in submitting his substitute to Mr. Campbell's (of St. Louis city) amendment to the marriage license law; that in offering the substitute, he wanted it distinctly understood that he was not in favor of, and he had no desire to be placed on record as being in favor of miscegnation; he was bitterly opposed to marriages between white and black persons, but that his idea in offering the substitute was that if a white man married a black woman, he should suffer the consequences of his own folly.

Mr. McDaniel moved that the amendment offered by Mr. Mott, this morning, to House bill No. 386, and the vote thereon, be expunged from the journal of the House.

The Speaker (Mr. Anderson in the chair) decided the motion out of order.

Mr. McDaniel appealed from the decision of the Chair.

Pending discussion on the appeal,

On motion of Mr. Arnold, the House adjourned until to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock.

FORTY-SECOND DAY—SATURDAY, March 1, 1879.

The Speaker laid before the House the following communication from the Superintendent of Public Schools:

OFFICE OF STATE SUPERINTENDENT PUBLIC SCHOOLS, }
JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., February 26, 1879. }

To the Honorable House of Representatives, Thirtieth General Assembly, State of Missouri:

I have the honor of submitting the following response to the resolution this day adopted by the House of Representatives, calling upon me for certain information touching the condition and management of the State Normal Schools.

The first division of the resolution calls for a list of students attending each of the Normal Schools of the State, including each department, namely: School of Practice, Preparatory Department and Normal Proper, with the age of each student.

The age of each student is never furnished the State Superintendent. A list of the names of students is furnished, usually, only in the catalogues. The catalogues of the present school year are not published, and since I have no means of knowing the facts sought by this part of the resolution except the catalogues, the reports of the principals at the close of each school year, and the records which are always subject to the inspection of the regents, it is manifestly impossible for me to furnish what this part of the resolution calls for, until I shall have transmitted a copy thereof to each Normal School and have received their several answers. I have this day caused copies of the resolution to be mailed to the principals of each school, requesting an immediate answer. In the meantime, the facts which I am able to give you, and herein presented, may answer the purpose of the resolution.

The second division requires me to state whether there is in each, or any of the normal schools of this State, a preparatory department, for the education of children who should attend the district schools, and if the teachers of said department are paid with State funds.

In the normal schools at Kirksville and Warrensburg, there are no practice nor preparatory departments. The Boards of Regents require, that before any one shall be admitted to the lowest class, the applicant must be at least fourteen years old, and must first pass a creditable written examination in spelling, reading, descriptive geography, elements of English grammar, and arithmetic as far as percentage. The average age of the students admitted to the school in Warrensburg, for the last school year, was 19 years. I am of the opinion that when the answer to the resolution is made by the principal of the school at Kirksville, it will be found that the average age is still greater.

When these schools were in their infancy, and that class of students for which they were designed had not applied for admission in sufficient numbers to fill the class rooms, or engage the full time of the faculties, the Boards of Regents thought it right to permit the localities in which they were situated, and which had given the State respectively $100,000 and $170,000 in school property to enjoy the privilege of sending their younger children, especially while their attendance did not interfere with the legitimate work of the faculties. But this state of facts continued only a few years. Teachers of experience, and those who designed to become teachers, applied for admission in numbers which called into requisition all the resources of the schools, and the Boards of Regents at once closed the doors against all save those for whom the schools were established.

The Normal School at Cape Girardeau is the youngest school, and is following Warrensburg in this regard, as Warrensburg followed Kirksville. This school has a preparatory department, which it utilizes as a practice school for its advanced pupils. But it is not the policy of this school, as it has never been the purpose or policy of any of the Boards of Regents to establish or maintain a department for the education of children, who should attend the district schools.

The last part of this division of the resolution asks whether the teachers of said department are paid with State funds. Interpreting the expression State funds to mean the appropriation made by the Legislature, I answer, no. The State appropriation is not at all adequate to maintain the exclusively professional or normal work, and this work draws the amount of the deficiency from the sum realized from the incidental fees.

The third division asks whether students can not teach one month in the school of practice, and be released from any further teaching in this State?

They can not. The amount of teaching done by students, as practice work, enters into no agreement with the Board of Regents; it forms no part, expressed or implied, of the pledge to teach in the State of Missouri. The object of the Normal Schools is to fit teachers for the public schools, and not to secure teachers for themselves, and hence the obligation to teach commences after, not before the student leaves the training school.

The fourth division requires me to state the number of students from other States in each of said schools, and if said students pay the same tuition as Missouri students?

It will not be possible to state how many are now in attendance from other States, until the principals shall have sent me an answer to the resolution. But the report from the Warrensburg school for last year, which I transmitted to your honorable body, and which the House ordered to be printed, gives the number from Missouri (31 counties) as 443, and the number from other States, 9; number pledged to teach in Missouri, 382. A large majority of the remaining 70 who did not pledge, stated that they attended for the specific and only purpose of preparing themselves for teaching, but that they preferred to pay the additional $4, which the Board invariably adds to the incidental fee of those who will not make this written pledge to teach.

The students who come from other States, or register from other States, are treated precisely as other students from Missouri. In case a student from another State pledges to teach in Missouri, he pays only the incidental fee of $16. If he does not pledge, he pays $20 per session. This is for Warrensburg. For Kirksville there is no difference in cost on account of the pledge; the fee is kept at the higher figure, $20, and all pay it. At Cape Girardeau the fee is $8, without increase for failure to pledge to teach. This matter is regulated by each Board, (there is a separate Board for each school) according to the necessities of each case and the pecuniary ability of the class of students applying in each section.

The reports from Kirksville and Cape Girardeau for last year, heretofore submitted by me to your honorable body, do not show the number in attendance last year from other States, nor was in necessary they should do so, since the catalogues for that year supply this information. The catalogue of the Kirksville Normal shows that, out of an enrollment of 534 students, 66 registered from other States. The office copy of the catalogue of the Southeast school has been borrowed and not returned to me, but for a preceding year I find that out of an attendance of 229 students, 12 were from other States.

In conclusion, permit me to say that the foregoing is as full an answer as can be made, at present, to the resolution.

I have the honor to be,

Very respectfully,

R. D. SHANNON,

State Sup't Public Schools.

The Speaker laid before the House the following communication from the Superintendent of Public Schools:

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SCHOOLS, }
OFFICE OF SUPERINTENDENT, }
JEFFERSON CITY, February 28, 1879. }

To the Honorable House of Representatives, Thirtieth General Assembly, State of Missouri:

In response to the resolution adopted by the House, on yesterday, requesting the State Superintendent "to report to this House the names of teachers in each of the Normal Schools, and the amount of salary paid each, the past session; also the amount received from students of each of said schools, for tuition or other fees, the past session," I respectfully submit:

The biennial reports of the Missouri Normal Schools, submitted to the General Assembly and printed for its use, by order of the Senate, shows salaries paid teachers for the past session, as follows:

FIRST DISTRICT NORMAL SCHOOL.—LOCATED AT KIRKSVILLE.

J. Baldwin, Principal.....	$2,060
W. P. Nason.....	1,260
B. S. Potter.....	1,260
Miss M. T. Henderson.....	900
J. U. Barnard.....	800
G. W. Krall.....	800
J. W. Shryock.....	240
T. B. Smith.....	720
M. M. Thomas.....	360
C. H. Ford.....	240
Total.....	<hr/> $8,640

SECOND DISTRICT NORMAL SCHOOL.—LOCATED AT WARRENSBURG.

Report to Legislature does not give the names of teachers and amount of salary to each; but I transmitted a copy of the resolution to the Principal of this school, on yesterday, and received from him, by to-day's mail, the information sought. It is:

Geo. L. Osborne, Principal.....	$2,300
Richard C. Norton, Vice-Principal.....	1,500

John J. Campbell.....	$1,500
Wm. F. Bahlemann.....	1,500
Miss Ida M. Carhart.....	800
Miss Kate Lowen.....	350
John T. Paden.....	350
John N. Summers, Penmanship, 2 hours daily.....	140
Total.....	$8,440

The report of the board shows $8,387.50 as the total. The difference of $52.50 is accounted for by the statement of President Osborne, that Mr. Fike, the Secretary of the Board of Regents, is at the death-bed of his mother; that, hence, he (Osborne) can not inspect the official record, and that the pay to Mr. Paden and Miss Lowen, as above given, is approximate.

THIRD DISTRICT NORMAL SCHOOL.—LOCATED AT CAPE GIRARDEAU.

Report to Legislature shows an aggregate amount of salaries paid to teachers as $6,120, but does not itemize. A copy of the resolution was sent to the Principal, and the items will be given when his answer is received.

RECEIPTS FROM INCIDENTAL FEES.

The report to the Legislature shows the amount received for incidental fees for the school at

Warrensburg, (page 6 of report).....	$3,828 20
Cape Girardeau, (page 8 of report).....	845 00

The names of the teachers of the Cape Girardeau Normal School, with the amount of salary paid each, together with the exact amount of incidental fees received by the Kirksville Normal School, (the only two items embraced in the resolution which I am, at present, unable to give) will be reported when I shall have received answers to the resolution from the two schools mentioned.

Since my answer to the resolution of the 27th inst., I have received responses to said resolution from the Principal of the Normals, which I transmit herewith and submit to your consideration.

With these reports is supplied an answer to each and every question submitted to me, in the resolution of the 27th and 28th of March, except the amount of contingent fees at Kirksville.

Mr. Kneisley, from the Committee on the University of the State, submitted the following report :

HON. J. ED. BELCH, Speaker of the House of Representatives :

SIR :—The undersigned, a portion of your Committee on the University of the State, beg leave to submit the following report :

We visited the University during the last week in February, and there made an examination of the books and accounts, showing the receipts and expenditures for the years 1877 and 1878. The books appear to be well kept, the accounts or claims have been properly audited and allowed, and we found proper vouchers for each item of expenditure, and found all to be correct.

We made careful inquiry into the estimates for expenditures for the ensuing two years, and believe the estimates are only such as are necessary to meet the wants of the institution. We are convinced that no reduction from estimates can well be made without it should be in the salaries paid to professors and teachers, and we cannot recommend this, as the salaries now paid are lower than are paid by similar institutions in our neighboring States, and are as low as such talent as is required for the successful management of the university can be secured.

Between three and four hundred students are now receiving instruction in the various departments, representing between sixty and seventy counties of this State, and also students from some thirteen other States.

The students, both male and female, are believed to be fully up to the average in mental and moral worth, and if we may believe the universal testimony of such of the citizens of Columbia as your committee were able to confer with, are to be highly commended for their orderly, attentive and industrious habits, thereby giving evidence of most excellent discipline in the institution.

We visited most of the rooms during the hours of recitation, or of instruction, and although we had but little time to spend in any one, we there witnessed much to commend in manner of instruction on the part of the teachers, and in respectful and earnest attention on the part of the students.

We also visited the Agricultural College Farm, if, in its present neglected condition, it can be said to deserve so much name, and we are constrained to say that this farm is not so nearly a model, in arrangement and improvement, as to be any great credit to its owner, the State of Missouri.

The condition of the farm is not fairly chargeable to any neglect on the part of those who have had the care of it. They have had very little to do with, and it is believed, have accomplished all that could well be done with the means at hand. No money has ever been appropriated by the State for the improvement of this farm.

This farm was given to the State by the people of Boone county, for the establishment of the Agricultural College, in connection with the University, and it cannot be expected the liberality of the same people shall be taxed for its improvement and successful maintenance. The State should provide the means and labor to make this the model farm of the State, if not the model farm of the Mississippi Valley. This should be done, or the pretense of keeping up an agricultural department of the University, and a farm connected therewith, should be abandoned.

The farm embraces 640 acres, much of it good agricultural land and all of it good grass land, with the exception of a few acres, and on these few acres can be opened stone quarries, where material for such building and fencing as are wanting, may be procured very cheaply. Of this land, between three and four hundred acres have been reduced to cultivation; much of the remainder is covered thickly with brush. This should be well grubbed, and the land cleared of all except such trees as should be left for ornament or shade.

Six or eight miles of good fence is much needed on this farm, and it is believed that this should be constructed of the stone that there is on the land.

It has been suggested that the buildings and fences may be constructed, and the grubbing and clearing done by the use of convict labor, without making any large appropriation of money from the treasury of the State.

On the south end of the tract of land, a full mile from the University grounds and $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles from the town, is a very beautiful spring, affording an abundant supply of pure water. Here, barracks could be erected for the care of 30 to 50 men, who could be well employed for years in work exclusively for the State and on State property. The increased production of the farm could be made to furnish subsistence for the convicts while so employed. Here they could quarry and dress the stone, burn brick and lime, and erect all necessary buildings, such as barns, tool houses, work shops and a propagating house, all of which are very much needed. They could also erect all necessary fences, clear the land referred to and thus accomplish many desirable improvements without looking to the State for appropriations from the State Treasury, except for the purchase of such building materials as this labor would not be able to produce.

All of which is most respectfully submitted; which was read.

Mr. Bryan introduced bill No. 494, entitled An act to regulate the insurance of property against loss or damage by fire, and to prevent the destruction of taxable wealth of counties, cities and towns; which was read the first time and laid over.

Mr. Settles introduced bill No. 495, entitled An act concerning the fees paid sheriffs, marshals and other officers, for boarding prisoners; which was read the first time and laid over.

Amend after the preamble, Resolved, that it is the sense of this House that the words "revise and digest" as used in the Constitution means to arrange, to put in order and to correct the laws of a general nature, and therefore it is unnecessary, a great waste of time, and an unwarrantable expenditure of money to introduce and cause to be passed, statutes and acts which are already laws in full force and effect, when the same are not proposed to be amended and repealed; that only such sections should be included in the bill which are proposed to be amended or repealed; therefore the Committee on Revision are instructed to eliminate all such sections of bills which are or may be included in bill sections not proposed to be amended or repealed, and so report them back to the House in their reports contemplated by the form and concurrent resolution No. 33; which was read.

Mr. Bashaw offered the following substitute for the resolution and amendment:

Resolved, That it is the sense of the House of Representatives that the plan of revision by introducing amendments to the statute laws where the same may be necessary, instead of introducing the entire chapters on the different subjects, is the proper and most economical plan, but inasmuch as the Senate has been proceeding upon the latter plan, and any change from that plan will meet with opposition in that body; therefore the House agrees to yield in the matter, rather than endanger the final success of revision; which was read and adopted.

The following message was received from the Senate, through its Secretary, Mr. Pemberton:

Mr. Wisby, from the Committee on Internal Improvements, submitted the following report:

Report No. 1—MR. SPEAKER: Your Committee on Internal Improvements, to whom was referred the accompanying resolution, relating to the Missouri Pacific Railroad Co., southwest branch, submit the following report, and recommend that that portion of the resolution asking what legislation, if any, is necessary on said matters, together with the facts and references herein contained, be referred to the Committee on Judiciary; which was read and adopted.

Report No. 2—MR. SPEAKER: Your Committee on Internal Improvements, in compliance with a resolution of the House of Representatives, requesting it to inquire what aid has been extended by the State to the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company, southwest branch, in what amounts, upon what terms, and upon what security, and also to inquire what is now the condition of the securities, if any so taken, and whether any default has been made by said railroad company in any of its obligations to the State, and to report to this House what legislation if any is necessary on said matters, beg leave to report as follows:

In answer to that portion of the resolution concerning the amount, terms and security, upon which aid was extended to this railroad, a brief statement will suffice, as this has long since ceased to be a matter of public interest, owing to the fact that the original lien on the road was cancelled by the terms of the first sale, or more properly speaking, by the sale itself, the subsequent lien of $300,000 being one of contract.

The State of Missouri at different times, and by different enactments, granted aid to said railroad company by issuing State bonds amounting in the aggregate to $4,500,000.

2. Under the act of December 25, 1852, the General Assembly granted to said railroad company, a portion of the land granted by the Congress of the United States to this State, to aid in the construction of certain railroads, the land along the line of the Pacific Railroad, southwest branch, from the point where the same diverges from the main line of the Pacific Railroad, to the western boundary of the State, which in the aggregate, amounted to over 1,000,000 acres.

In the year 1867 the road was sold to Gen. John C. Fremont, pursuant to an act authorizing the foreclosure of the State's lien thereon, and the sale of the road, approved February 19, 1866.

Fremont paid $324,850.50 as a first payment, and defaulting in the next payment of $——, the Governor, under the terms of the act of foreclosure, declared the sale forfeited, and in the name of the State resumed possession of the road, and placed it under the charge of Gen. Clinton B. Fisk, who was running it when the General Assembly met in 1868.

That body passed an act, which was approved March 17, 1868, disposing of the road, and granting and transferring to A. C. Kingsland and his associates, twenty-eight in number, all its franchises and property of every description, including the lands above referred to, in trust for the South Pacific Railroad Company, and upon two conditions, namely: That said company shall complete the said railroad to the western State line, by the 10th day of June, 1872; and that the said

South Pacific Railroad Company should pay to the State the sum of $300,000 in three annual payments; the section of the act covering the second condition is here copied in full.

Section 17. That the said South Pacific Railroad Company shall pay to the State of Missouri the sum of three hundred thousand dollars, one hundred thousand dollars to be paid on or before the first day of June, 1874, and the sum of one hundred thousand dollars on or before the first day of June, 1875, and one hundred thousand dollars on or before the first day of June, 1876; which shall be in addition to the other conditions imposed by this act, and which sum shall be secured to be paid to the State of Missouri by the bond of said company, with approved security, and which bond shall be given before said company takes possession of said road. When said sum shall be paid into the State Treasury, the same shall be paid into the State interest fund.

Under the provisions of the act, the company filed their acceptance and took possession of the road.

Their bond was filed with the Secretary of State on the 17th day of June, 1868, with William B. McKean and S. N. Jouett, as securities, with the approval of the Governor, Thos. C. Fletcher, indorsed thereon, and is in words and figures as follows:

Know all men by these presents: That the South Pacific Railroad Company, a corporation created under the laws of the State of Missouri, as principal, and William B. McKean and S. Normand Jouett, both of the city, county and State of New York, as sureties, are holden and firmly bound and obliged unto the State of Missouri in the sum of Three Hundred Thousand Dollars, to be paid unto the State of Missouri, for which payment, well and truly to be made, the said company doth bind itself and its successors and its representatives; and the said McKean and Jouett do bind themselves, their heirs, executors and administrators, jointly and severally, firmly by these presents.

In testimony whereof, the said South Pacific Railroad company has caused its corporate seal to be herewith affixed, and the same to be signed by Francis B. Hays, its president, and William Halsey, its treasurer, thereto duly authorized, and the said McKean and Jouett have hereunto set their hands and seals this tenth day of June, in the year of our Lord eighteen hundred and sixty-eight.

The condition of this obligation is such, that if the said South Pacific Railroad Company shall pay to the State of Missouri, in pursuance of the seventeenth section of an act of the General Assembly of said State of Missouri, entitled An act to dispose of the Southwest Pacific Railroad and other property belonging thereto, and to secure the early completion of said road, which act was approved by the Governor of said State of Missouri, in March 17th, A. D. 1868, the sum of three hundred thousand dollars, by installments, payable at the following times, viz.: One hundred thousand dollars to be paid on or before the first day of June, in the year of our Lord 1874, and the sum of one hundred thousand dollars on or before the first day of June, 1875, and one hundred thousand dollars on or before the first day of June, 1876; then this obligation to be void, otherwise, to remain in full force and virtue.

(Signed) SOUTH PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY.

By Francis B. Hays, President.

William Halsey, Treasurer.

L. S.	W. B. McKean.	[L. S.]

I, Thomas C. Fletcher, Governor of the State of Missouri, hereby approve the foregoing bond, with the above-named sureties as security, and in behalf of the State of Missouri, I hereby accept the same in full satisfaction and performance of the requirements of the seventeenth section of the above named act of the General Assembly of the State of Missouri.

Witness my hand, this 11th day of June, A. D. 1868.

(Signed) THOS. C. FLETCHER,

Governor of the State of Missouri.

On the 21st day of October, 1870, the Southwest Pacific and the Atlantic and Pacific railroad companies were consolidated under the corporate name of the latter, by virtue of an act of the General Assembly, approved March 24, 1870.

Under the provisions of this last act, the existing company assumed all the obligations and liabilities of the Southwest Pacific Company to the State.

The first installment fell due June, 1874, and was not paid. On March 20, 1875, the House of Representatives adopted the following resolution.

Resolved, That the Attorney-General be and he is hereby requested to furnish to this House a statement of what power, if any, he may have, or any other State officer, of enforcing the payment of the amount due and to become due by the Southwest Pacific Railroad Company to the State, under the provisions of section 17 of an act entitled an act to dispose of the Southwest Pacific Railroad, and other property belonging thereto, and to secure the early completion of said road, approved March 17, 1868.

In compliance with the resolution, the Attorney-General, on the 23d day of March, 1875, submitted a communication, the following extracts from which form his legal conclusions of the matter:

As the first installment of this debt fell due on the first day of June last, the proper mode for its collection would be by suit upon the bond in behalf of the State, and so likewise of each of the remaining installments as they mature. There is this difficulty, however, in a proceeding upon the bond. The Southwest Pacific corporation having been merged in the Atlantic and Pacific Company, and the existence of the former having ceased, no action could now be maintained against it for this debt.

The Atlantic and Pacific Company cannot be proceeded against upon the bond, because it is not a party to its execution. The suit upon the bond then can only be against the securities, and the liability of the Atlantic and Pacific is created under the provisions of the act of March, 1870, authorizing the consolidation of the two companies, and subjecting the existing corporation to the payment of the liabilities of the original company.

The face of the bond shows that the personal securities, McKean and Jouett, are residents of the State of New York, and as I know of no facts that would give the courts sitting in this State, either State or Federal jurisdiction over them under a separate suit upon the bond as non-residents, such proceeding would therefore have to be instituted in the courts of that State. * * * *

In addition to a suit upon the bond against the securities, I will add that the State can, in my judgment, likewise maintain an action against the Atlantic and Pacific Company in the courts of this State, for the recovery of this debt, under the provisions of the act by which the two companies were consolidated.

(Signed)

JNO. A. HOCKADAY,

Attorney General.

During the month of July, 1876, Governor Hardin wrote to Donnell, Lawson & Co., bankers of New York City, inquiring as to the solvency of McKean and Jouett, the two sureties on the bond.

They replied to Governor Hardin, under date July 26, 1876, and in their answer appears the following:

" * * * Wm. B. McKean is a resident of this city and has desk room in the law office of S. L. M. Barlow. He is known as a public accountant * * and without means."

In a letter dated August 7th, 1876, they say:

" * * * We are advised that S. M. Jouett is a book-keeper at the Merchants' Exchange National Bank, 257 Broadway; has no property. * * * He was formerly in the employ of Wm. B. McKean." * * * * * * *

On the 4th day of September, 1876, the Attorney General instituted a suit against the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company in the Circuit Court of Cole county in this State, which suit was afterwards dismissed, no valid service of the petition and writ of summons having been had on the defendants.

On the — day of — 1877, the Senate adopted the following resolution:

“WHEREAS, By an act of the General Assembly, approved March 17, 1868, the Southwest Pacific Railroad, with all its appurtenances, was sold to the persons named in said act, upon the condition, among others named in said act, that the said parties pay to the State of Missouri, the sum of three hundred thousand dollars, in installments of one hundred thousand dollars each, on the fourth day of June, 1874, 1875 and 1876; which said sum was required to be secured by the bond of said parties, who purchased the same with approved security.

“AND WHEREAS, Said sum of money is now due and wholly unpaid; therefore be it

“Resolved, By the Senate, that the Attorney General of the State be requested to inform the Senate what action, if any, has been taken to enforce the payment of said sums; whether the same is now collectable by law; whether the bond and security as required by said act have been given, and what action, if any, is necessary to realize to the State the said purchase money of said railroad.”

On the 7th day of February, 1877, the Attorney General, in compliance with that resolution, submitted a statement, the conclusions in which are as follows:

“I do not find that there was any condition in said bond, either expressed or implied, that is broad enough to make the said trustees liable to the State for the failure of said company to pay to the State the amount of said bond required by section eighteen.

“The grant contained in said act was practically to the said Railroad Company, and its corresponding obligations were directly to the State, and, it would seem, if the company has not discharged these obligations to the State, that the trustees can not be held liable thereon, further than is provided for in the bond required by said section eighteen.

“I am unable to discover any statutory provision, or any principle of equity jurisprudence that created a lien in favor of the State, on either the South Pacific Railroad, or the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad for the amount of said bond mentioned in section 17, act of March 17, 1868.

"That the South Pacific Railroad Company, in pursuance of second section of the act approved March 24, 1870, sold and conveyed its said railroad franchises and other property to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company.

"That under the provisions of said consolidation act, and an act authorizing the South Pacific Railroad Company to merge in and consolidate with the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, approved March 15, 1871, the said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company made itself subject to the liabilities and obligations of the South Pacific Railroad Company, which of course included the said bond, or writing obligatory mentioned in section seventeen.

"A somewhat critical examination of said bond, or writing obligatory, in connection with the said act authorizing the same has led me to the conclusion that in form, the same was sufficient.

"My opinion as to the solvency of the sureties in said bond, or writing obligatory, is based entirely upon hearsay and is unfavorable. I think that an action prosecuted against said sureties would be unavailing.

"The South Pacific Railroad Company, many years since, transferred and sold its franchises, real estate and other property, to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, and that in the year 1876, the Circuit Court of the United States for the Eastern District of Missouri, ordered the said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company into the hands of receivers, and that subsequently, under a decree in one or more cases pending in that court, said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, with its franchises and other property, were sold and transferred to the St. Louis and San Francisco Railway Company, and that the said Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company does not now own any assets that I have been able to learn.

"I am unable to indicate any action that would realize to the State the said purchase money due the State on said bond.

(Signed) "J. L. SMITH, Attorney General."

This comprises all the information that can be furnished by your committee in accordance with the requirements of the resolution.

Mr. Riley submitted the following communication from a Committee of the Board of Managers of State Lunatic Asylum No. 2:

To the Board of Managers State Lunatic Asylum No. 2:

The undersigned committee, appointed under a resolution of the Board adopted at the last regular meeting of the Board, on the 11th inst., to prepare a report embodying the wants, and setting forth the circumstances by which the inmates of the Asylum are surrounded, beg leave to submit the following report:

There are now confined in the court house, in the city of St. Joseph, one hundred and seventy-five insane persons, regularly and in due form of law, sent from 45 different counties in the State, to Asylum No. 2.

The residue of the patients that were in the Asylum when it was burnt on the 25th day of January last, have been taken home, where they are now kept, and will be kept until they can be returned to the Asylum and properly cared for and treated.

Since the fire, all that could possibly be done to provide for the wants, comfort and proper treatment of the patients now in the court house, has been done.

But we are satisfied that the restoration of many patients to sanity has been evidently retarded by the want of a suitable building in which to treat them.

Little can be done towards the relief of insane persons who are surrounded by the exciting circumstances surrounding them in the court house.

There is more or less noise, day and night, to disturb them and prevent sleep and repose, and it is impossible, in a public building that every one thinks he has an interest in and the right to enter when he pleases, to prevent idlers and thoughtless persons from annoying and harrassing the patients.

But your committee are satisfied, from the experience we have already had since the patients have been in the court house, that it will be utterly impossible or impracticable to keep them there when the weather becomes warm. Already, notwithstanding the cold weather ever since they have occupied the court house, the halls, and every room in the entire building, are filled with offensive and sickly odors.

The county officials, all of whom have offices in the building, are complaining, and justly, we think, of the effects produced by the occupancy of the house as an asylum. It is impossible to keep a pure and sweet atmosphere in any building occupied by the number of helpless insane now in the court house, not provided with the necessary ventilation.

A plentiful supply of fresh water and proper bathing facilities are indispensable, and we think we may say with confidence, that the insane cannot be provided for, treated, or made comfortable in any building not expressly built and designed for the purpose.

That provision must be made to remove our patients from the court house, before warm weather sets in, is certain.

And if no building is erected for the purpose, the Board of Managers will be forced to have them all returned to the counties from which they were sent. Upon this branch of the subject, we will state that, in answer to a request of your committee, the following communication was received from Dr. G. C. Catlett, the Superintendent:

GENTLEMEN—In compliance with your request to give my opinion as to the practicability of providing for the insane now quartered in the court house during the spring and summer months, I have the honor to state that unless the court house be given up to the State for asylum purposes, and such alterations and improvements be made as are required in asylums for the treatment of the insane, it will be impossible to provide for and treat them in the court house, during the spring and summer months, without endangering the health of the patients, and rendering the building untenable for the transaction of official business.

(Signed)

GEO. C. CATLETT.

It was, soon after the building was burnt, suggested to committees sent to examine into the condition of affairs of Asylum No. 2 by the General Assembly, that a temporary building, costing $10,000, could be made in six or eight weeks. That, together with the buildings now standing on asylum grounds, would accommodate all the patients comfortably until a new, permanent building could be provided, and this temporary building could be used for certain classes of patients permanently, thereby increasing the facilities of the State for the treatment of the insane to the extent of 150 or 200 patients. This temporary building to be constructed near the site of the old building, and so as to utilize all the advantages of water and machinery, the farm, garden, dairy, and all else belonging to the State, on asylum grounds. This policy we think best to pursue. The next best thing that could be done, in our judgment, would be to reconstruct at once the north wing of the old building. This could be done in a month, and that wing made as good as ever, and with much greater capacity than it possessed before for keeping patients, at a cost of from $10,000 to $15,000.

If this wing were at once reconstructed or repaired, the patients could all be kept in it and the houses upon the ground, until the old building could be reconstructed.

That prompt action in the premises is demanded by the interest of the State and the necessities of the patients, is too patent to those who have thought about the matter to need argument. The farm, garden, vineyard and orchard, indeed everything out at the asylum grounds, needs attention.

The time for preparing ground, trimming trees and making preparation for cultivating the premises during the present year, is upon us. A few more weeks' delay and it will be too late to raise a crop and grow vegetables. Again, the spring rains and winds will destroy the walls of the old building, most of which are now good, unless steps are at once taken to cover and preserve them.

I. C. ROBERTS,
ALLEN H. VORIES.

Mr. Lesueur submitted the following report from the Warden of the Penitentiary, in compliance with a resolution of the House:

OFFICE MISSOURI STATE PENITENTIARY,
JEFFERSON CITY, March 18, 1879. }

To the Honorable the House of Representatives:

GENTLEMEN: In accordance with House resolution adopted March 3, 1879, calling for certain information respecting the Missouri Penitentiary, I have the honor to transmit herewith exhibits A, B, C, D and E.

Exhibit A shows the amounts received by said institution from the appropriation made thereto, and from all other sources, giving full particulars and items thereof, as well as the number of convicts contracted or hired out, the names of the contractors or persons to whom they are hired, and the amount received from each person.

Exhibit B shows the number of convicts employed in the service of the State and the particular employment.

The articles manufactured, and the amount received therefor, from convict labor employed in the service of the State, appear in Exhibit A.

Exhibit C shows the number and names of the officers and employes of the institution, the amount paid to each, and the manner of payment.

The manner of payment, as appears in writing at the top of Exhibit C, was in cash.

The amount paid to employes was $8,524.44 in excess of amount appropriated for that purpose. The appropriation for 1877 and 1878 was based upon the pay-roll of February, 1877, at which time there were only about 300 convicts working for profit. As that number increased, it became necessary to employ more guards and foremen. The above stated amount ($8,524.44) was paid out of the proceeds of labor, and deducted therefrom each month, thus showing the net, and not the gross earnings of labor.

The amount of $1,488.18, paid to employes on repairs account, was charged to the appropriation for Repairs of Penitentiary, as has been the custom heretofore.

Exhibit D shows the amount of flour, and quality, purchased, from whom it was purchased, and the amount paid to each person; the number of pounds of beef purchased, the persons from whom the purchases were made, and the price paid to each; the amount of bacon and pork purchased, from whom purchased, the price per pound, and the amount paid to each person; the number of pounds of other meats purchased, and the price paid therefor; the amount, kind and cost of fuel, from whom purchased, and amount paid each person; the amount of sugar, molasses and coffee, from whom purchased, and the amount paid to each person.

In order to show the actual cost, at the penitentiary, of the articles named in Exhibit D, the freight on same should be added, from the place of purchase. As the resolution does not call for the amount of freight paid, the information is omitted.

Relative to paying interest and discount, and charging the same to the State, I have only followed the course pursued by my predecessor.

Whenever warrants were received from the Auditor on account of "maintenance of the penitentiary," or for "pay of civil officers and guards," they were presented to the Treasurer for payment; and when payment was refused, I was forced to the alternative of discounting the warrants, or borrowing money with the warrants pledged as collateral security—which ever, in my judgment, was for the best interest of the State.

During the year 1878, I drew nothing from the appropriation for "maintenance of penitentiary," and often was obliged to borrow money for a short time, paying interest on same, to meet the current expenses.

I have paid discount and interest to the Third National Bank and State Savings Association of St. Louis, and to the National Exchange Bank and Fleming & Sears (bankers) of Jefferson City, as well as some small amounts to merchants from whom goods were purchased and accounts were overdue.

Interest has been paid on the following named accounts: Maintenance of the Penitentiary, Repairs of the Penitentiary, and Pay of Civil Officers and Guards.

In response to the closing portion of the resolution, which recites "that the Warden report whether all the contractors working convict labor within the walls have been supplied with all the labor they demanded, and if not, state the reason therefor; and further state if any partiality has been shown to contractors, either by filling the orders of some in preference to others, or furnishing some contractors with long time men, or for other reasons more profitable," I have the honor to transmit herewith, marked Exhibit E, the letters from the several contractors within the walls, which fully replies to that part of the resolution, and clearly state that each and every contractor has been supplied with about as many men as they could have worked, and that no partiality has been shown to one over another.

I have the honor to be, gentlemen,

Very respectfully,

J. R. WILLIS,

Warden Missouri Penitentiary.

Clerk in the Treasurer's office, and one of the most singular features of all these complicated transactions, is the fact that notwithstanding the bitter personal fight between these two men for the office, Noland should be retained in the office as Gates' head man," in the report of special committee to investigate the management and present condition of the State treasury, be stricken and expunged from the journal and records of the proceedings of this House; the motion to reconsider was agreed to.

The question recurring upon the adoption of the resolution; it was adopted.

Senate bill No. 144, entitled An act to promote the science of medicine and surgery; was taken up, read at length by the Clerk, and signed by the Speaker without objections.

Leave of absence was granted Mr. Vancleve for three days.

Mr. McCormick of St. Louis city, from the special committee appointed to investigate the affairs and amount of fees received by certain officers in St. Louis, submitted the following report:

MR. SPEAKER: Your special committee appointed by resolution of the House, to investigate the income and emoluments of certain offices in the city of St. Louis, who exercise official functions by authority of State law, and to report to this House the facts elicited, with a view to proper legislation concerning the same, ask leave to submit the following facts and recommendations:

We find that the city of St. Louis, by the adoption of the scheme and charter, and the consequent abolition of its county government, transferred the functions of certain county officials to corresponding city officers, and that the fees, commissions and emoluments, collected by them under the operations of such transfer, are retained as perquisites.

The recorder of deeds forms an exception to the rule, and the duties of his office are well administered, all fees excess of his salary being turned over to the city treasury.

The city marshal. The duties of this office are ministerial, and involve no financial risks; the expenses of this office, the salaries of his deputies, and his own salary, ($4,000), are paid by the city.

The incumbent testified that the office needed no assistance from the State, though last year there was collected in State fees $7,600, of which he retained ($5,000), in addition to his salary.

The city register's salary ($3,000), and the salary of each of his clerks, and all of the contingent expenses of his office, are defrayed by the city. Last year he received $7,100 in fees through the collector's office, which, together with his salary, and the direct income from fees in his own office, he claims as rightful perquisites.

The collector receives a salary of $5,000 from the city, and $5,000 from the State, his clerks and his deputies and all of his contingent expenses, aggregating about $46,000, are paid by the municipal government.

The act passed in 1877, under which the office is managed, designed that $10,000 should be the limit of the compensation of the incumbent, but the laxity of the said law is such that his income exceeds $40,000 annually.

It may prove of interest to report specifically upon the management and investigation of this office.

The committee having subpoenaed Mr. Rosenblatt, required of him a sworn statement of his income from all sources, as derived through and by virtue of his office. Taking two days to consider the several questions which had been propounded, he submitted a statement to the effect that his income was in round numbers $41,000, for the two fiscal years of his incumbency, and that about $9,000 more was held subject to litigation by the city, but which he acknowledged due the State. He admitted, upon taking the stand, that his statement did not include about $10,000 which he had made through a private arrangement with a notary, by which the notarial fees collected through the office, were equally divided between them; and further admitted, that in violation of and in disregard of a city ordinance, requiring him to keep a deputy to take such acknowledgments and to pay such fees into the city treasury, he collected and retained such fees as perquisites.

This was the only indirect source of revenue which the collector admitted sharing, though it was apparent that many thousands of dollars additional were being collected, which could not be traced to the city of St. Louis, and certainly not to the treasury of the State.

Interrogation of the collector soon developed the further fact that $1.25 had been charged for the investigation of the titles of real estate delinquents, and if several lots were included in one investigation, there was charged said sum on each lot. He frankly admitted that he collected such sums without any warrant or authority of law whatsoever, and that the charge was never enforced if an objection was urged. It was subsequently proven that there were between seven and eight thousand of these delinquents.

The collector was asked if any "divide" was made with his attorneys? He denied that there was, though it was proven that in 1878 the amount of $272,500.00 was placed in the hands of five attorneys, and that one of them had alone nearly $200,000.00 of delinquent tax-bills for collection, and all of the larger cases.

He was asked if he had requested an attorney to run for the Legislature as his friend, and that he would give him one-fifth of the attorney's fees of the office, and that he (the attorney) would not even be required to appear in court? He denied it, but admitted that he had offered the said attorney the position of one of his five attorneys, as an inducement to enter the General Assembly, as he was interested in the election of an United States Senator from St. Louis. A consistent story, but how a United States Senator could be made by a Republican member, was not explained.

The collector also denied any interest in his official advertisements, or that he received any rebate upon them.

Mr. Wolcott, late manager of the Dispatch, swore that under the contract, which existed with that paper, Mr. Rosenblatt received the entire proceeds from all official advertisements until a debt of that paper was cancelled, and thereafter a rebate of one-third, which was not to go to Rosenblatt, but was to be applied to the Second Congressional District for political purposes.

In this connection it was ascertained that more than double rates were charged by the newspapers for the official advertisements of the incumbent, and collected as costs against delinquent tax-payers.

The collector also denied that any rebates were made by his clerks, either to him or any one else, to his knowledge.

He testified that each of his employes received the actual amount for which they were carried on the pay-rolls of the city.

The testimony subsequently revealed that a pernicious system of rebates did exist, and that they were not only known, but were directed by the collector himself. It was shown also that he shared personally in these rebates in one instance.

It was proven, and not controverted, that one Hutzler had quit the collector's office indebted to Mr. Rosenblatt several hundred dollars, and that the security upon the note, (one A. Veil) which had been executed for such debt was placed on the municipal pay-roll at $150.00 per month; that the cashier of the office paid to Veil only $100 each month, and that the remaining $50 was each month credited to said note until it was paid, and upon the cancellation of the debt, the same clerk was placed on the pay-roll at $100 per month. Thus it was made manifest that a sworn officer of the city and of the State, by indirection, compelled the city, whose revenues he handles, to pay a private debt due to him through the prostitution of his official patronage.

After the collector had been excused, his manner having discredited his testimony, an investigation of the books of the office under a subpoena duces tecum was instituted, and soon developed that the income which could be positively traced to him during a period of eighteen months and thirteen days, was $69,585.25.

Additional thereto was the large sum, which he testified his notary received, aggregating in two years about $10,000; all rebates on official advertisements which could not be estimated, but which Mr. Green testified were worth between $15,000 and $20,000 annually; and the income to one of his attorneys, which, could the delinquent tax-bills have been collected during the current year, would have amounted to between $15,000 and $20,000 more.

The collector's private account, as shown by the ledger, was then examined, and the said account tallied with the result of our investigation as deduced from the books, with the exception that it did not show the commissions on back-taxes:

From 1865 to 1876, inclusive.....	$13,867 54
Twenty-five cents charged per tract on each lot for each year.....	4,947 24
Salary from city.....	7,680 00
Fees from merchants' licenses.....	2,676 25
The account as per ledger was.....	32,918 69

Making a total of.....	$62,089 72
------------------------	-------------

Received during a period of eighteen months, to which should be added his notarial receipts, making the total as above, $69,585.25.

When the result was announced, the collector appeared for a personal explanation.

He stated that when he was questioned as to rebates, he was thinking of something else; that he had forgotten to include his commissions or fees on the delinquent personal taxes for 1877; also same fees for taxes in 1878; as to the twenty-five cents per tract, collected under the law for the register, but which by private arrangement he received, he had not included it in his tabulated statement, because the expense incident to the making of the books was between $5,000 and $6,000, so that a positive loss resulted to him.

In this connection it is proper to state that neither of his chief clerks knew of any expense incurred which was not paid by the city.

So much for the management and practices in vogue in this office, through which passes two-fifths of the revenue of our State.

THE CIRCUIT CLERK'S OFFICE.

This office was also investigated and found to be well conducted and its functions faithfully administered.

The office is more than self-sustaining, which results from a system of constructive fees, which should be discontinued. A filing fee of $3.00 is charged upon each suit which is instituted, which is an injustice to litigants, and is authorized by a special or local law. The committee recommend its repeal.

As to the probate court, and the criminal clerks, we have no recommendation to offer.

The office of the Railroad Commissioners was visited and its vouchers examined. We found no cause of criticism of the management of the office.

The sheriff's office was investigated and found not to be a lucrative one. It was testified that former incumbents had left it in arrears. The present incumbent, his chief deputy and his cashier each testified that it was not self-sustaining, and that the sheriff had lost about $5,000. The sheriff pays his own deputies and receives the surplus if any exists. Your committee recommend that the State functions now performed by the city marshal be transferred to this officer; that he be limited to a compensation, not to exceed $10,000 per annum, which compensation shall be calculated upon a basis of an actual occupancy of the office, and that all fees received in excess of said sum, either during his incumbency or that of his successor, shall be turned over to the city of St. Louis. We would also recommend that the sheriff be required to make quarterly statements, under oath, to the comptroller of said city, of all income, fees, commissions and revenue by him collected, either directly or indirectly, from all sources. The salary is suggested, as indicated, in view of the great responsibilities of the office.

In addition to the recommendations named, the committee would urge the passage of Senate bill No. 189, with such amendments as will be suggested, which bill relates to the offices of city register, city marshal and city recorder. Also, Senate bill No. 188, with the proposed amendments, which regulates the office of the collector of St. Louis.

We also recommend that the back tax law, as affecting the compensation of attorneys, be amended. The collector and comptroller of the city of St. Louis should be empowered to take notarial acknowledgments in connection with their offices, and any charge therefor prohibited.

The fee bill of the circuit clerk's office should be reconstructed so as to eliminate all constructive costs, and the committee suggest that the law be made general.

A law should be enacted, with penalties, making advertising rebates illegal; preventing any officer of the law, attorney-at-law, administrator or person holding property in trust from profiting by such rebates, and giving the benefit of such to the party entitled thereto.

A law should also be enacted giving any aggrieved citizen a summary process, by which any justice of the peace, or any ministerial officer, State, county or municipal, may be cited to appear before any court of record, and show cause why he should not be removed from office for any malfeasance, misfeasance or oppression in office, and particularly for charging any fee not allowed by law.

Should the legislation recommended be enacted, it is calculated by the committee that the saving to litigants, merchants and taxpayers of the city of St. Louis alone will aggregate as follows:

Circuit clerk's office, to litigants.....	$21,000
Marshal's office, to city, about.....	8,000
Register's office, to city, about.....	15,000

(which includes fees collector received last year—25 cents per tract on delinquents).

Collector's office.....	30,000
Notarial fees disallowed on dramshop and merchant licenses.	10,000
Advertising rebates.....	20,000
Attorney's fees—back taxes.....	10,000
Investigation of titles.....	5,000

Total..... $119,000

All of which is respectfully submitted, together with the testimony which is filed herewith and a part of this report.

The Speaker laid before the House the following communication from Hon. Thomas Holladay, State Auditor :

AUDITOR'S OFFICE,
JEFFERSON CITY, March 24, 1879. }

Hon. J. ED. BELCH, Speaker of the House of Representatives :

SIR: In answer to House resolution of 22nd inst., "That the State Auditor be and he is hereby requested to inform this House what has been the falling off in the assessment of taxable property in this State, if any, within the last two years ;

Also, whether the State Board can, without injustice, increase the assessment, and if not increased, what the deficiency in the State revenue will be for the ensuing two years," I have the honor to say the aggregate amount returned by the county assessors for the year 1877 was $556,568,824, and that the State Board, in its adjustment and equalization, increased the same to $584,719,175, making an increase of $28,150,351.

The aggregate amount returned for 1879, as shown by the printed abstract heretofore published, is $509,629,424, with the counties of Boone, Cape Girardeau, Douglas, Miller, Mississippi, New Madrid and Taney not reported. The total assessment of these counties two years ago was $14,353,369.

If estimated at the same amount now, (and they are likely to fall below, as the general shrinkage has doubtless affected them,) the aggregate assessment for 1879 will be $523,982,773, as returned by the assessors.

Deduct this amount from $584,719,175, as fixed by the Board for 1877, and there will be a falling off of $60,736,402.

It will be observed by comparing the assessment for 1877, viz: $556,568,824, with those of 1879, to-wit: $523,982,773 as above estimated, there has been a decrease of $32,586,051, to say nothing of the increase of $28,150,351, as made by the State Board of Equalization in 1877.

From the testimony of honorable Senators, members and others, so far elicited by the Board, it would seem that there could not be, in a proper equalization, an increase exceeding $10,000,000, if that much, without grievous injustice to taxpayers.

If the amount of increase should not reach higher than $10,000,000, there will remain a falling off of $50,000,000, as compared with the equalization of two years ago, which will make a reduction in the State revenue of $200,000 per annum on general property, or $400,000 in these two years.

It requires a valuation of $300,000,000 on general and railroad property to meet the demands of the State, and if the valuation falls off $50,000,000, leaving only $550,000,000, the treasury will be greatly embarrassed.

I may be permitted to remark that this decrease of revenues might be partly overcome by legislation, such as would increase licenses, effectually reach bonds, notes and money, and if possible, decrease expenses.

I have the honor to be,

Very respectfully,

THOS. HOLLADAY,

State Auditor.

Which was read, and, on motion, 500 copies ordered printed.
